Petition Drive Seeks 21 Drinking Age

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A petition drive to raise the legal drinking age in Michigan will shoot for returning it to 21, organizers have decided. Originally, they aimed at raising the drinking age to 20 because, as one organizer said, "That might be the best we could do." But after sampling public opinion, they have decided to go for broke.

The drive to place the issue on the 1978 ballot is slated to begin early next month, supporters say. They are confident there is plenty of public support to get it on the ballot and approve it. The language of the provision is now under consideration by the Board of State Canvassers. Once approved, circulation of petitions will begin.

The proposed constitutional amendment would make it illegal to sell or give alcoholic beverages to anyone under 21 and outlaw possession of booze by anyone under 21. There would be no "phase-in," under which those now able to drink could continue, as under legislative proposals. The petition drive was slated to begin last month. But supporters delayed it while discussing raising the current 18-year-old age limit back to 21. They report strong public support for the three-year hike.

"There's little sentiment for anything in between," Allen Rice, executive director of the Michigan Council on Alcohol Problems (MICAP), said Monday. MICAP is a church-related organization concerned with drug abuse. He said surveys show people want the drinking age returned to 21. The fact that the legislature has taken little action on the issue also has provided support for a petition drive, Rice said. The Senate this spring passed a bill raising the drinking age to 19, rejecting a higher age, but the House has not taken up the matter.

Senate passage came after parents, school officials and police argued that the 18-year-old drinking age, in effect since 1972, has caused discipline problems in schools and more traffic accidents among young people. Opponents argue the state shouldn't take away rights from people who are otherwise considered adults, and that drivers through age 24 are responsible for more than their share of alcohol-related accidents.

Rice said the petition drive, which will need at least 265,702 valid signatures to put the issue on the ballot, will cost roughly $50,000. He said it begins with a substantial organizational base with church mailing lists, school officials and others with local contacts. But strong opposition is expected from the liquor industry and bar owners, as well as those who feel 18-year-olds should retain all the rights granted under the age of majority. Rice and Bill Finlan, assistant superintendent of the Macomb County Intermediate School District, have been named co-chairmen of the "Coalition for 21," the petition drive organization.

Officials Powerless To Shut Book Store

By JOE HERMAN
Staff Writer

Berrien county Prosecutor John Smietanka told a Benton Heights audience last night that there is currently no enforceable law that would allow him to close down the Pioneer Adult Book store.

Smietanka spoke at a meeting organized by the Rev. Charles J. Long of the Benton Heights Church of God. Long is attempting to raise opposition to the book store which has been in operation since November in Benton Heights. The church is on Euclid avenue, a block away from the book store on Red Arrow highway.

Smietanka told the crowd of about 40 people, including John Talaran, manager of the Pioneer Adult Book store, that an organized effort by the community would be the most effective means of dealing with the store.

"There are some available approaches if you determine that there is a majority in the community against the store," Smietanka explained. "Legal action that has been upheld by the courts includes zoning ordinances to restrict where the store can be located."

Smietanka cited ordinances in Boston and Detroit which required that adult book stores be located in a specific section of town or a certain distance from schools and churches.

"What is required is persuasive organization and legal action on a community level," Smietanka said. "The courts have shown that they are unable to handle pornography as a criminal offense. Groups like the PTA (Parent Teachers Association) are the most effective at getting results in these types of situations. The more government you get involved in this, the worse off you are."

Talaran defended the store saying that it deals only with "consenting adults" and that identification is checked to insure that no sales are made to minors.

Talaran also said the store is protected by a constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech, just like the church has constitutional protection.

Talaran's comments resulted in a volley of Biblical quotations with the audience.

"Judge and ye shall not be judged," said Talaran at one point.

"Let the saints be the judges," came the reply.

Benton township Police Chief Joe Sieber advised the audience that a restrictive ordinance could still be challenged by the store's owner.

"The owners of this store have been in court in Muskegon and Kalamazoo and are used to this kind of trouble," Sieber said.

"If an ordinance is passed and challenged, it would require township money to back it in the courts."

The Benton Heights store is owned by Playmate Theater Corp., of Battle Creek.

Sieber added that the possibility of a restrictive ordinance is being investigated by Benton township Attorney Tom Robinson.

Rev. Long said that more meetings will be held to discuss other means of resistance to the book store and possible legal action regulating its operation.

Hot, Humid Spell Is Sticking Around

It's not that much to look forward to, but the hot, humid weather is going to continue through the remainder of the week, according to the Weather Service forecast.

Michigan got some respite from the heat Monday, almost an island in the vast hot air system that engulfed most of the eastern two-thirds of the nation yesterday. But the skies today were empty of the light cloud cover that kept the mercury in the low to mid-80s Monday. Readings in the low 90s were forecast for today, and in the mid-90s tomorrow.

Scattered thunderstorms that swept across parts of southern Michigan yesterday produced funnel clouds in several locations. One tornado funnel northeast of Hillsdale swooped low enough to damage four homes and destroy two garages, although it did not actually touch down. Funnel clouds were also sighted near Waterford, northwest of Pontiac in Oakland county, and near Windsor, Ontario, across the border from Detroit. There were no reported injuries.

Heat and humidity clung to most of the nation from the Rockies to the Atlantic today, and there was little prospect of any immediate relief.

Temperatures steamed past 100 across the Northern Plains, in the Southwest and along the Eastern Seaboard on Monday. Nineties were the rule over most of the eastern two-thirds of the country. More of the same was on tap today.

Winner, S.D., recorded the nation's high of 110, and Rapid City registered a July 18 record 105 there. Roanoke, Va., sweltered at 102 to break a 35-year-old record, and Richmond tied the July 18 record there with 101. Pueblo, Colo., hit 102 and New York 100.

Two Bangorites Killed, Two Hurt In Smashup!

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

FRANKFORT — Two Bangor people were among four killed in a head-on crash of a car and a semi-tanker truck hauling liquid asphalt early this morning just outside the city limits here.

Reported killed in the 2:30 a.m. accident were David B. McKay, 20, and Regina Patton, 15, both of Bangor, identified as passengers in the auto. Also killed were the driver of the auto, Arlo D. Tanner, 23, of Frankfort, and Ricky Ives, 14, of Benzonia.

Two other Bangor residents, Tina Patton, 15, identified as a cousin of Regina, and Marcia Tanner, 26, were injured. Tina Patton was reported in fair condition and Marcia Tanner was admitted for observation at Paul Oliver Memorial hospital, Frankfort.

Benzie county Undersheriff Richard E. McCarty reported the Tanner auto was headed west on M-115 when it appeared to have crossed over the center line striking the semi head-on.

M-115 was closed for nearly eight hours following the accident as work crews cleaned up the liquid asphalt from the highway. Some of the dead had to be buried from the wreckage, which was also covered with asphalt carried by the truck.

Twin Cities Area CB'ers Form Channel 9 Watch

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

If Bob and Sally Luth didn't monitor the emergency channel on their CB radio, that driver who got stuck in the mud on Calfish Lake road last summer might still need help.

The Stevensville couple began listening to Channel 9, designated for use only in emergencies by the Federal Communications Commission, last summer. Now, Luth and other CB owners are trying to organize around-the-clock monitoring of Channel 9.

A meeting to organize the Blossomland Assist will be held Wednesday, at 6:30 p.m. at the Cook Nuclear plant, Lake township. Luth thinks it will take 20 volunteers to form a group like those now operating in Union Pier, Watervliet and Dowagiac.

He said the Blossomland Assist will be composed of people living in the area covered by the white pages of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph area telephone directory.

Generally, people who monitor the emergency channel take tips from other CB'ers about stranded motorists, fires, accidents, and other emergencies and pass them along to police, Mrs. Luth said.

Monitoring was invaluable last winter when thousands of people were stranded on the highways and in their homes and needed help, the Luths said.

The Luths have speakers in every room of their home and they try to listen to Channel 9 from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. every day. It's gratifying to help others, they say. For instance:

At 10 a.m. on Aug. 20 of last year, according to a log they keep, they received a signal from a man who said his car was stuck in the mud on Calfish Lake road. The driver asked anybody listening to "call the rangers at 638-5628."

Because reception was varying that day, the distress call could have been coming from anywhere. Bob and Sally listened over two hours to the calls, made every 15 minutes, hoping the motorist would say something to pinpoint his location.

At 12:15 the motorist again made his distress call, then raised his voice and added "Doesn't any S.O.B. in the State of North Carolina have ears?"

Bob grabbed his telephone book, found the area code for North Carolina and called a forest ranger in South Carolina. Last he heard, the ranger called the motorist on his CB, asked where he was stranded and said he'd be there within 1½ hours.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the time you never know how these things turn out," Bob said.

The Luths live at 7200 Red Arrow highway. They are owners of Progressive Building Sales.

Relieving Debt Strain Of Unemployment Pay

Michigan employers from the smallest machine shop operator on through to the Big Three automotive producers agree on the state's unemployment benefit structure and the tax to support it as being one of the primary pains in the neck in doing business.

The UAW's control of the Democratic majority in the legislature has seen to it that just about anyone can be paid for not taking a job which fails to suit his fancy. To keep the fund halfway solvent to sustain this generosity the tax on the employer's payroll has to be maintained at a high level.

The tax is assessed from two sources.

Currently the federal government charges 7/10ths of 1 per cent on the first $4,200 of an employee's wage.

The Michigan tax theoretically fluctuates from an absolute minimum to a ceiling. The employer with a low turnover pays the minimum; the one with an erratic employment record is taxed higher per this experience rate for claims.

Presently, this spread is from one-half of 1 per cent to 2.7 per cent on the first $5,400 in wages.

The Michigan law has another twist.

If the state fund runs low, which is very much the situation in Michigan, the minimum is increased.

It would be our guess at this time just about all employers in the state are at 2 per cent or higher.

The state tax receipts are paid directly to the claimants.

The federal tax goes into a trust fund from which a state fund in the red can borrow.

Last week Cong. William M. Broadhead, Democrat from the 17th District, introduced a bill to ease the deficit-ridden funds in Michigan and 33 other states whose unemployment rates have been on the high side for the past few years.

The Michigan fund owes the federal trust fund $624 million.

Other major debtors (millions in parenthesis) are Illinois ($751.6); Connecticut ($438.1); Pennsylvania ($847.2); New Jersey ($638.9); Massachusetts ($265); Minnesota ($172); and New York ($155.8).

Earlier in the year Broadhead obtained a two-year moratorium for any state fund in hock to the federal trust fund.

This does not cancel the debt, but it does stall imposing higher taxes on employers to make up the state deficit.

His newest bill, one receiving instant bipartisan support from the Michigan delegation in the House, would either cancel those debts or substantially reduce them.

In some instances, Michigan included, not only would the $624 million bill be torn up, the state fund would receive an additional $83.9 million as a rainy day bit of assistance.

The Broadhead plan is based on what the congressman styles a cost equalization formula.

Under the system now in effect a state fund has to be at zero before it can borrow from the federal trust fund.

Broadhead would stave off that risk by having the federal trust fund come to the rescue when a state's unemployment rate moves beyond 6 per cent and the required benefit payments have exceeded what the state fund has actually paid out.

Though the idea of one area sharing its troubles with others goes against the grain, it must be said there is nothing new about it in our country.

Starting with first bit of pork barrel legislation in George Washington's day, distributing the goodies here, there and elsewhere has been a national pastime.

Broadhead merely puts reverse English on this pork barrel theme.

As he comments in a press release outlining his measure, "I believe that this bill is absolutely necessary to redress the regional inequities caused by high unemployment. Without cost equalization, we will be pushing some states further and further into economic depression."

We urge the reader to write Dave Stockman, a Republican, to work with his Democratic colleague on this one issue.

STABILITY NEEDED. IN PRINCIPLES

Editor,

How stable are our principles these days? Do we believe firmly in Right and Wrong, Male and Female, Love and Hate? Is it all Black and White? Or are our principles tinged with the light-black, the dark-white, the gray?

The news media tell us we are up in arms about the big corporations paying millions in bribes for overseas business. And about members of Congress accepting favors from influential constituents, lobbyists and foreign representatives.

How different is that in principle from the tips we leave in the restaurants and beauty parlors, the green stuff we slip the headwaiter for a good table, the lunch or Christmas present we accept from a salesman?

Our society is rightfully upset by the small-time crooks, who steal and kill, and by the big-time crooks in organized crime, in government and in the big corporations, who steal millions.

In principle is that so different from the actions of the average citizen, who bends the law to his advantage: pads his expense accounts, finds a tax loophole, exceeds the speed limit by a few miles, reports in sick, when he has other plans for the day?

The headlines report our worldwide support of Human Rights, and that we therefore can't deal with nations which disregard human rights. But I've not yet seen a good definition of what we consider to be the human rights. Maybe it is the "Life, Liberty and pursuit of Happiness" of our Declaration.

Well, can we deal with ourselves then? Do we respect those Human Rights in our own backyard? May we live our own life without our neighbors telling us, through our government, how to raise our children and what school to send them to, how to spend our money (not to buy gas-guzzlers), how to earn our money (OSHA, minimum wage), how to grow old (retire at 65), how to stay healthy (get flu shots, don't smoke, do without saccharin)?

Oh well, that's different. That's for our own good. We voted for such restrictions through our own elected representatives.

Wouldn't most of us prefer a "live and let live" attitude, and let our National pledge "with Liberty and Justice for All" apply in the first place to ourselves?

Let us show some stability in our principles.

Euclid Avenue, from Territorial road to Highland Avenue, has been closed to traffic for construction of bridge over business route 1-94, commonly known as "killer crossing" in Benton Township. The workers, who have already begun grading and surveying, said the overpass will have no exits or entries to business 1-94 when completed Nov. 30. Instead entry and exit roads will be located at the Crystal Avenue crossing which remains open. Cost of the project, financed equally with state and federal funds, is $381,848.

The first full month of operation of the Berrien county food stamp program is now history, and County Social Services Director Wesley Bowerman pronounced himself "very pleased" with its program.

The city council of St. Joseph took a final swipe at Col. Bean and his electric lighting plant last night by passing a resolution calling for a special election to be held August 11, for the purpose of bonding the city to the amount of $32,000 to establish a commercial electric lighting plant. It is stated that 16 candle power incandescents will be furnished to consumers at 25 cents per month, while the present price asked by Col. Bean is 75 cents. It will cost a large amount of money to install the plant. There will be two large engines and a transformer installed and the wiring will cost considerable money.

A Veteran Goes 'Marginal'

WASHINGTON — When the professional politicians began to analyze which seats in the House of Representatives might be considered "marginal" in next year's elections, they noticed something strange: The list included the 18th congressional district of Texas.

"Marginal district" is a House district where the current occupant is considered vulnerable because he or she received less than 55 per cent of the vote in the last election.

The list invariably is dominated by freshman and sophomore representatives whose names and accomplishments are vague in voters' minds, plus a scattering of ideologues whose affinity for the distant right and left edges of the political spectrum often means the sacrifice of job security.

In theory, Texas' 19th district has no place on that list because ever since it was created in 1934 it has been the sole, virtually undisputed property of one man — Rep. George H. Mahon, a lanky, soft-spoken Democrat who is the "dean" of the House and chairman of its powerful Appropriations Committee.

Mahon has been elected to 22 consecutive terms, and in 16 of those contests he had no Republican opposition. When the first foulmouthed GOP opponent surfaced in 1946, Mahon walked off with 94.6 per cent of the vote. Four years later, he captured a mere 93.9 per cent against another hapless Republican.

Three other opponents surfaced in the early 1960s, but only one even came close to gaining a third of the vote in the barren but oil-rich West Texas district whose only sizeable cities are Lubbock, Midland and a portion of Odessa.

After handily disposing of that trio of pretenders to the throne, Mahon was re-elected without opposition for another five consecutive terms. Last year, the manager of an Odessa brokerage house decided to take his chances against Mahon.

Conservative Republican Jim

Reese captured 45.4 per cent of the vote. Mahon, with the remaining 54.6 per cent, plunged overnight from political patriarch of the Permian Basin to "marginal" congressman.

"The big thing was age," says one newspaper reporter who followed the Mahon-Reese contest. "Mahon admits to being 76 and a lot of people suspect he's even older. They just decided it was time for a change."

Early this month, Mahon unexpectedly disclosed that he will retire at the end of his current term. Most of the news accounts of his announcement failed to mention the congressman's little-publicized brush with political defeat.

But Mahon isn't the first House veteran to see the handwriting on the wall. In recent years, several committee chairmen have elected retirement rather than face the potential ignominy of voter rejection in their senior years.

Those who didn't understand that seniority had been transformed from an asset to a liability — men such as Reps. Emanuel Celler of New York and Wayne N. Aspinall of Colorado — suffered the disgrace of defeat.

Others were unceremoniously dumped from their chairmanships by an irreverent group of young legislators. Two once-powerful chairmen — Reps. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas and Wayne L. Hays of Ohio — left town in disgrace after highly publicized scandals.

Of the 20 men who were chairmen of House committees just five years ago, only Mahon and four others remain today. That turnover rate is unprecedented in the modern history of the House.

George Mahon is among the last of a disappearing breed — the "old bulls" of the House who regularly won re-election by acclamation, served for decades and held semi-permanent title to the chairmanships of all the influential committees.

Ironically, He's Forgotten

WASHINGTON — Lady Bird Johnson revealed recently that racists had burned a cross in front of the LBJ ranch in 1964 to protest the President's support for the civil rights act.

The cross-burning was kept a secret from the press at the time, presumably because someone decided publicizing the incident would further inflame passions on the subject. Despite heavy Secret Service protection at the ranch, the racists were able to put up the cross at the main entrance and set it ablaze before the agents discovered it.

The former "First Lady" disclosed the incident in a Public Broadcasting interview in which she recalled the tension and anger throughout the South at Johnson, the first Southern President in a century, for championing the rights of blacks. UN Ambassador Andrew Young, ironically, has forgotten Johnson's support in those harsh days; he recently called Johnson a "racist."

It broke up the group and nobody remembered she hadn't really answered anything.

Benton Firm To Expand In Downtown BH

Quality Stamping Plans To Create 30 Jobs

A Benton township manufacturing firm plans to use two vacant buildings in downtown Benton Harbor to expand its business in a move that is expected to create about 30 more jobs.

Quality Stamping Co., Inc., 2162 Plaza drive, last night requested the Benton Harbor city commission to vacate an unpaved alley between Territorial and Main streets so that the company can connect two buildings it owns to expand its business.

The commission voted to "initiate proceedings" to vacate the 190-foot dead-end alley. A public hearing must still be held on the request before the commission takes final action, according to City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. The two buildings, each with about 5,200 square feet of space, are located across the alley from each other — one is located at the corner of Main and Second street and the other is at the corner of Territorial and Second street. Farmer said last night that the city does not use or service the alley and no business operation uses it. There are two other vacant buildings located on the alley, he said.

John LaMantia, president of Quality Stamping, said the company hopes to have the alley vacated so that it can connect the two buildings. LaMantia said the company plans to move its final assembly operation to the two buildings in about a year and hopes to employ 30 to 35 people at the Benton Harbor buildings when the move is completed.

Quality Stamping currently employs about 42 people at its Benton township plant where it manufactures metal parts for automotive oil filters and filters for industrial use. LaMantia said the company will continue manufacturing at the Benton township plant and use the Benton Harbor buildings for final assembly, warehousing and shipping.

Late last week, the commission also took final action to sell a portion of the bankrupt Benton Harbor Malleable Industries plant to a Benton township metal tubing manufacturing firm for $27,500.

The commission voted in a special meeting Friday to approve the formal purchase agreement with Triax Tube Co., located at 2564 M-139. The agreement calls for Triax Tube to purchase 60,000 square feet of the former Benton Harbor Malleable's 500,000 square foot plant complex on Graham avenue.

Under the agreement, Triax is purchasing two empty buildings, one formerly used for shipping and receiving and the other for office space and light manufacturing on an "as is" basis.

Robert G. Jackson, president of Triax Tube Co., said earlier that he plans to begin operation at the plant in September and hopes to increase the company's present employment from 14 to 30 people when the company completes its move in about a year and a half.

Benton Harbor Malleable entered bankruptcy proceedings in 1973 and closed its doors in December, 1974. The buildings are being sold under an agreement set by federal bankruptcy court in Kalamazoo which directed the City of Benton Harbor to act as "collecting agency" for the sale of land and buildings. Malleable owed some $400,000 in local property taxes when it went into bankruptcy proceedings.

The commission last night approved the sale of a vacant parcel of land the city owns to a church for $225.

The land, located at 840 East Washington avenue, was sold to the Community Church of God in Christ which plans to use the property to build a day care center for children of church members on the site which is located two lots away from the church at 870 East Washington.

In April, the commission turned down an offer of $150 by the church to purchase the land. Commissioner Mildred Wells, wife of Rev. Nathaniel Wells Sr., pastor of the church, abstained from voting on the sale last night.

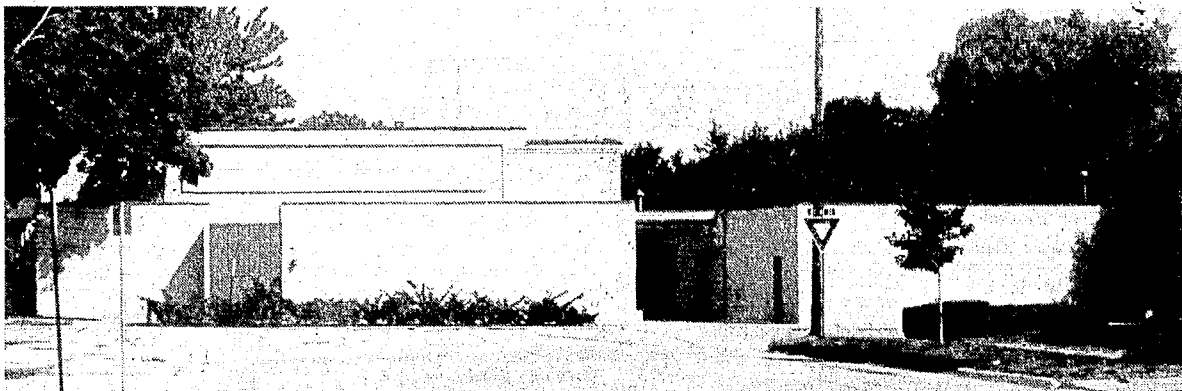

The commission also approved a request by Annie Lee Robinson, chairman of the "Black Coalition," to use part of Jean Klock park to host a picnic in observance of "Emancipation Day" Aug. 8.

Mrs. Robinson said the group, of local black citizens, is hosting the picnic in observance of the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation which in 1865 freed all slaves in the U.S.

F. Joseph Flaugh, a former Benton Harbor mayor and city commissioner, appeared before the commission last night and asked the commission to consider placing its automotive liability insurance with his agency.

"I was reluctant to come before you because my presence here is usually a labor of love and not business," Flaugh, who has been mayor and commissioner for more than 20 years, told city commissioners. "During my years with the city, I was ineligible, but now I'm back in the insurance business again."

Flaugh said the liability insurance is coming up for renewal this month. Farmer said he would meet with Flaugh and discuss the request.

Six SJ Buildings Will Be Razed

Six old and dilapidated structures in St. Joseph owned by Blossomland Properties Inc. — a venture sponsored by the Whirlpool Corp. — are scheduled to be razed soon.

Whirlpool formed the nonprofit corporation to assist the city in acquiring and redeveloping aging and run-down properties, according to George Welch, Whirlpool's manager of public affairs.

Three of the structures are houses at 511, 513 and 517 Main street. The houses were purchased by Blossomland Properties last spring, Welch said. The purchase price was not disclosed.

Once the houses are razed, the three lots will be made available for redevelopment, Welch said. In the meantime, they will be landscaped in a manner similar to an existing vacant lot directly to the north.

The three other structures to be razed are on Wayne street. Two of them are two-story frame houses at 215 and 217 Wayne street.

Also, the oldest portion of the former A. & R. Roe Printers building at 227 Wayne will be demolished to make way for a parking lot, Welch said.

A newer addition on the south end of the vacant plant will remain standing.

Whirlpool executives are now studying possible uses for the Roe property and nearby lots, Welch said. Those plans may be announced in a few months, he added.

The Roe plant closed in 1973. Blossomland Properties acquired the plant and the two other Wayne street properties about three years ago when the business was liquidated.

Blossomland Properties rented out the two houses and used the plant for a warehouse for a while, but now the buildings are becoming too rundown for continued use, Welch said.

An occupied house at 221 Wayne separates the Roe plant from the two houses owned by Blossomland Properties.

An annex to the Roe plant in a separate building behind the two houses is also owned by Blossomland Properties and it will remain standing, Welch said.

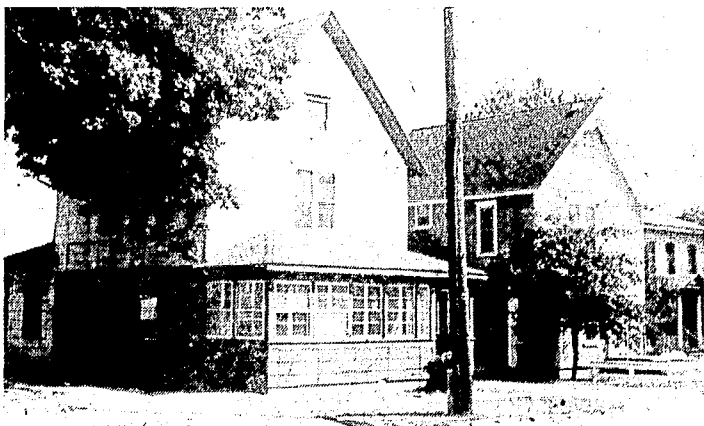

The six properties on Main and Wayne streets are the only holdings of Blossomland Properties at this time, Welch said.

Demolition permits have been issued to the John G. Yerington Concrete Co. to raze all six properties, according to Carl Conklin, director of building and inspections in St. Joseph.

MAIN STREET PROPERTIES: These three houses at 511 (left), 513 and 517 Main street, St. Joseph, will soon be razed and property will be made available for redevelopment. In meantime, lots will be landscaped.

Lots were acquired last spring by Blossomland Properties Inc., a nonprofit Whirlpool venture formed to aid in redevelopment.

WAYNE STREET HOUSES: These houses at 215 (left) and 217 Wayne street, St. Joseph, will soon be razed to make way for redevelopment. They are owned by Blossomland Properties Inc.

SJ OKs Off-Road Vehicle Ban

The St. Joseph city commission last night voted final approval for an ordinance that bans motorcycles, scooters, off-road vehicles and snowmobiles in city parks and on city beaches except in specifically designated areas.

Passage of the ordinance was requested by Police Chief William Mihalik. It received first reading approval at the July 11 city commission meeting.

Violators of the ordinance would be subject to a fine of up to $100 and a jail term of up to 90 days.

Contacted after the meeting, Mihalik said the ordinance is aimed at restricting recreational vehicles to using the same designated roadways in parks and beaches that cars use.

He said recreational vehicle drivers will only be ticketed for driving cross-country on grass or paths or on beaches. As long as they stay on the same roads and parking lots used by cars, they will not be ticketed nor prevented from entering parks and beaches, Mihalik said.

He said that until now, the city had no law that would prevent someone from driving a motorcycle or off-road vehicle across the grass or on the beach.

In other areas last night, commissioners approved a change to the agreement creating a six-member board of harbor commissioners to plan for development and promotion of the St. Joseph river harbor.

The harbor board was created last January by the city commissions of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph and the Berrien county board of commissioners.

The change approved last night allows member government units to appoint an alternate for their two regular representatives on the harbor board. The alternate would have full voting rights in the absence of either or both of the regular members. The board meets once a month.

The change must also be approved by the Benton Harbor city commission and the Berrien county board of commissioners.

City commissioners voted to give City Manager Gerald Hepler authority to proceed with cost estimates for repaving two alleys that would be financed by special assessment.

The alleys to be repaved run from Park to Price and from Price to Jones between State street and Lake boulevard.

The alleys are brick and would be repaved with concrete, Hepler said.

After the cost estimates are prepared, property owners on the alleys will be mailed notices telling them how much they are to be assessed for the project, Hepler said. A public hearing would then be held before the commission decides on whether to give final approval for the project, he said.

Hepler said the city repaves a couple of alleys every year as part of an ongoing project. He said there are still about 15 more alleys to be repaved in years to come.

Lions' Sightmobile Coming To St. Joe

The St. Joseph Lions club will conduct free eye screening tests for adults and children Thursday, Friday and Saturday on Broad street in St. Joseph. Roger Menchinger, Lions president, said the Lions' Sightmobile will be parked in front of the Credit Thrift at 517 Broad street, between Lake Boulevard and State street.

The purpose of the eye tests, according to Menchinger, is to determine whether a person requires further professional eye care. Everyone who participates in the program will be informed if the screening has revealed any possible defects, he said. The eye tests will be offered from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

The Sightmobile, part of the Lions volunteer sight conservation program, is owned by members of the Lions club district comprised of clubs in seven southwestern Michigan counties. More than 40,000 people have been screened since the inception of the program in 1969, according to Menchinger.

BH Dog Law Would Require Double License

A proposed dog ordinance in Benton Harbor would require a double license for a dog — $5 to the city and $4 for the regular county license, it was announced at last night's city commission meeting.

The new ordinance, which the commission will take action on at next Monday's city commission meeting, will also prohibit dog kennels in the city and limit the number of dogs to no more than two per household.

City Atty. K. Morris Gavin said cities are permitted to charge for dog licenses along with counties under a state statute.

Commissioner Arnold Bolin said the $5 city dog license is included in the ordinance to help pay for costs of animal control in the city. Faced with mounting complaints of barking dogs and dogs running loose, the city commission recently established its own canine patrol to augment services by Berrien county dog wardens.

Leonard Reed of 759 Broadway said he favored the new ordinance, but said he was afraid the city will not enforce it once it is adopted. No other citizens commented on the proposed ordinance during a public hearing.

Commissioner Mildred Wells questioned whether paying for both a county and city dog license might be a hardship on senior citizens who own dogs and asked the commission to consider exempting senior citizens from licensing.

Atty. Gavin said exempting senior citizens or any other group from the licensing requirement would "water down the effectiveness of the ordinance." He also said that, while the state statute exempts leader dogs for the blind from the licensing requirement, to exempt other groups might "create the possibilities of discriminatory practices" and make the ordinance unconstitutional.

The proposed ordinance also requires that all dogs over six months of age must be licensed yearly and establishes a $25 fine for violating the ordinance. The two-dog limit would not apply to families who now have more than two dogs and those dogs could be kept until they change ownership or die, according to Bolin.

First Woman Mayor

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — New Mount Pleasant Mayor Sibyl Ellis is the first woman to hold the post. Mrs. Ellis was sworn in Monday following the resignation of Mayor W. Sidney Smith, who had been in office since Jan. 1. He resigned to avoid a conflict of interest connected with his private business. Mrs. Ellis, who had been mayor pro-tem before Monday, is the 93rd mayor of the central Michigan city.

VISUAL PERCEPTION: Randy Zick, right, learning disabilities teacher in the Lakeshore schools, gives Schervone Washington, second from left, staff member from Neighborhood Youth Service, some pointers in working with Leslie Hebner and Tasha

Williams. They are using cereal to get the kinesthetic "feel" of a circle. The activity helps the children discriminate between different shapes and colors, remember what they see.

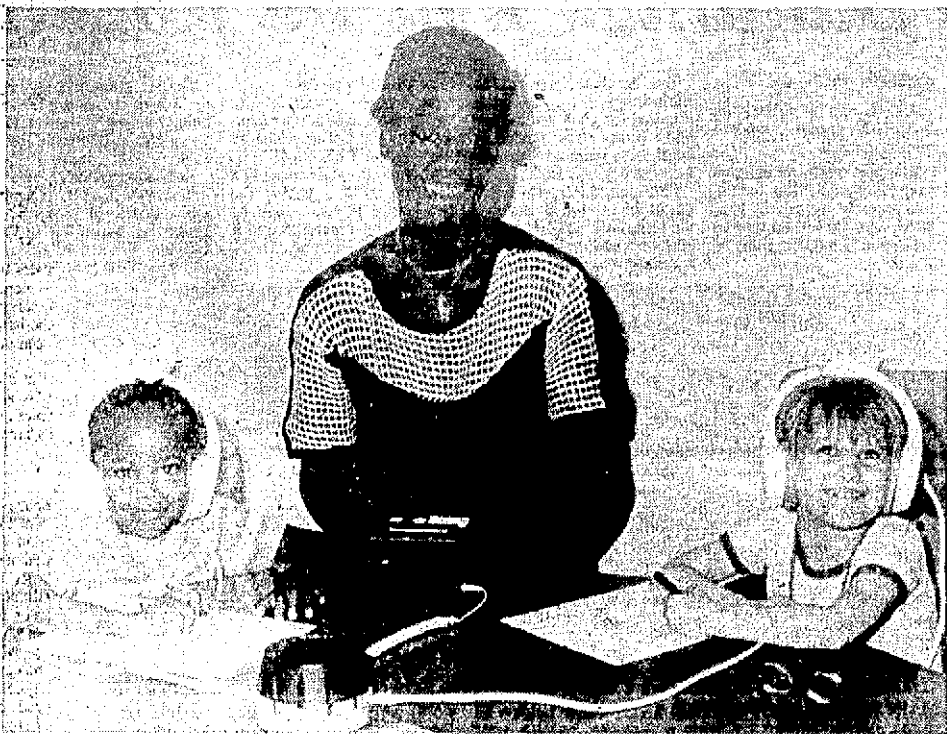

OBSTACLE COURSE: Instructor Roger Hall, a learning disabilities teacher in the Galien school system, puts Barb Dew and Scott Mulder through the obstacle course to help them gain better control of their limbs.

Running, jumping, throwing balls, and many other physical activities give the children the practice and help they need to function better in their worlds.

YWCA PROGRAM HELPS IN FIVE MAJOR AREAS

Better World For Perceptually Impaired Children

AUDITORY PERCEPTION: Paris Smith, center, a Neighborhood Youth Service staff member, works with Maurice Bruce, left, and Sally Hebner in the YWCA's perceptual and motor development program currently underway. The children are listening to instructions through the earphones, learning to remember what they hear, to block out background noises, and to discriminate between two or more sounds.

FINE MOTOR: Instructor Bilva Hueftle works with Barb Dew and Scott Mulder in activities in the fine motor station intended to develop the small muscles in the hands and arms. Visitors are welcome to observe the program at the YWCA in St. Joseph through Friday, July 22. Benton Harbor-St. Joseph YWCA perceptual and motor development program, a four-week course to help perceptually impaired children function better in a world they do not perceive normally, is in its final week at the YWCA in St. Joseph.

The program, which has an enrollment of 40 children, receives its major funding through Blossomland United Way. Though there is a small fee per child, scholarships are available.

The program began four years ago when the YWCA nursery committee saw the need for help for perceptually malfunctioning children. It was then funded with donations from industry and individuals.

Children are referred to the program by teachers, Riverwood Community Mental Health center, doctors and school psychologists. A total of 70 children applied this year, all of whom were screened and tested by experts. Parents of those who were not accepted in the program were given help and training so they can work with their children at home.

The brains of perceptually impaired children are like computers with a few misplaced circuits that do not transmit all the messages properly, according to Joan Dew, director of the program and learning disabilities consultant for the Berrien county intermediate school district.

A symptom for this disability, she says, would be a child with a ball who sees a ball coming towards him and knows what he would like to do in order to hit the ball, but the message does not come through to his hands and arms correctly and he misses.

Another child sees things backwards, or perhaps sideways. Some are not able to separate the background noises from the main sound they wish to listen. Some cannot discriminate one shape from another. All these things make learning difficult, even though this child may be very intelligent, Miss Dew said.

Hearing, speaking, seeing, fine motor and gross motor coordination are the five major areas of perception and motor abilities. Most children, who need help, she said, need it in several of these areas.

The program is preceded by a week of training the workers and testing the children.

There are six stations and children are scheduled to go each day to the three they need most.

Work is done at the auditory station on sound discrimination, blocking out background noises, and reacting and responding to spoken words.

Children who go to the language station learn to express themselves better and to react appropriately to words, helping language to develop.

The visual station stresses shapes, colors, discriminating between them, visual figure-ground work and visual sequencing.

The fine motor area concentrates on eye-hand coordination and small muscle activity and the gross motor area is in the gym where action takes place with running obstacle courses, throwing balls at targets, running, jumping and other large muscle motions.

The final station is the swimming pool where work in all areas takes place. Most of the children and workers consider this a treat as well, Miss Dew said.

"My staff is made up mostly of professionals in their fields who work as learning disability teachers, speech pathologists and the like during the school year," says the director. "We are all excited by the opportunity to concentrate so intensely with these youngsters, and feel a great deal is accomplished in four weeks."

The staff includes Pat Damico, Joy DeFrance, Roger Hall, Kathy Hall, Bilva Hueftle, Chylon Lewis, Jan Reimann and Randy Zick.

Over 20 volunteers work with the program. Some are experts in the learning disabilities field, some are parents, some just interested in helping.

Six college students from Western Michigan university are receiving credits for working with the program. Two others are doing their senior practicum. Nine young people from the Neighborhood Youth Service are also assisting with the program.

Parents of the children in the program are involved in a parent training program that will enable them to work with their children at home in specific areas in which they need help. Mrs. Karl (Florence) Wolfanger, committee member and volunteer, heads this training.

The YWCA committee responsible for the program is headed by board member Mrs. Ken (Connie) Reimann, who has been actively working on the program for the past two years.

Other members of the committee include Miss Dew, Mrs. Jerry (Jan) Reimann, Mrs. Don (Rosalie) Loving, Mrs. Ron (Darlene) Roe, and Mrs. Wolfanger.

Summer Service

St. Joseph-Benton Harbor YWCA is sponsoring a summer food service program for children that will continue through Thursday, Aug. 11.

The program is a supplemental service to children enrolled in the YWCA perceptual and motor development program operating at the YWCA, St. Joseph, through Friday, July 22.

Children in the program, ages four through seven, are served a complete breakfast and morning snack as a part of their regular program activities.

The food service program is also offered through the YWCA Youth center program being conducted at the Progressive Baptist church and the Community Church of God in Christ, both of Benton Harbor, through Aug. 11.

The centers offer a summer recreation program for children eight through 13 years of age and provide a full lunch and afternoon snack for program participants.

Meals are available at no charge to children without regard to race, sex, color, religion, or national origin, and is funded through the United States Department of Agriculture and the nutrition section of the Michigan Department of Education.

The YWCA is a participating member of Blossomland United Way.

Married 60 Years

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD J. SCHULTZ

Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Schultz, 1850 West Ogden circle, Benton Harbor, were honored July 9, at a 60th wedding anniversary party held at their home.

The event was hosted by the couple's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley E. Schultz, Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Schultz's sisters, Mrs. Henry H. Parsons, St. Joseph, and Mrs. Thomas E. Kendall, Oklahoma City, Okla.

The couple was also honored at a family dinner at Kalamazoo Inn, hosted by the son and daughter-in-law, following the open house.

Schultz and the former Nettie Wolverton were married July 7, 1917, in Benton Harbor, where they have resided since their marriage.

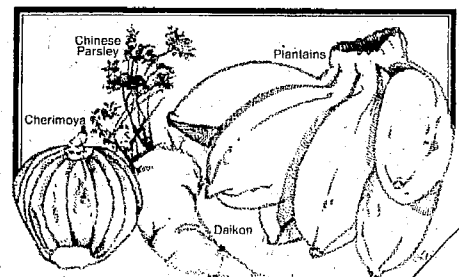

He retired from Remington-Rand, Inc., St. Joseph, in 1959. They are members of Grace United Methodist church, Benton Harbor.

The couple has three granddaughters.

Proof Is In The Eating Of Ethnics Like Sapote

By AILEEN CLAIRE

NEA Food Editor

Daikons are long, tapered, hot Japanese radishes. They are available in some produce departments that have Japanese customers. Many Americans by tradition have special likes among fresh fruits and vegetables and some markets cater to these preferences with interesting foods that you might like to try.

Here is how to recognize a few of these so-called ethnic specialties but there are many more that you might be on the look out for at your market.

CHAYOTE: One of the most versatile of all fresh vegetables, used in soups, salads, main dishes. Often called vegetable pears, mango squash, or million, the fruit is round or pear-shaped, smooth or corrugated. The darker green and harder a chayote, the better the eating. To serve, boil, bake or fry, with plenty of seasoning because the flavor is very mild.

PLANTAINS: Longer and thicker than the bananas they resemble, they are greenish with tough peel. An important food in all tropical countries, plantains are most often served as vegetables. Even when ripe, the fruit is starchy. Bake, mash or fry.

SAPOTE: The Mexican custard pie. It looks like a green apple but has no indentation on the blossom end. Eat out of hand. Ripen or soften at room temperature, then refrigerate.

FINOCCHIO: Also called fennel or anise. Popular vegetable with Italians. Broad leaf stalks overlap each other at the stem, forming a bulb. Quarter it and eat raw with salt or salad dressing, or saute in butter and bake with cheese sauce to top.

CILANTRO: The Spanish name for coriander, which is sometimes called Chinese parsley or Mexican parsley. Native to Southern Europe and the Orient, the coriander seeds have been used as a spice and a seasoning from ancient times. Kentucky produces more cilantro than any of the other states. Cilantro is the parsley-like leaf of the coriander plant. Its leaves are a bit more tender than parsley, but may be used in any way parsley is used but you'll need less cilantro than you would parsley. When shopping look for good green color and fresh, unwilld leaves. Wash well and store in plastic bag in the refrigerator.

CHERIMOYA: Means "cold seeds." Popular in Mexico, this fruit is almost heart-shaped. Green-colored when ripe, its skin has a faint medallion-like pattern. It is grown in southern Florida, the Indies, Australia and California. When chilled, it has a natural sherbet texture and is sometimes called "sherbet fruit" or "custard apple." Its flavor resembles, if you can imagine it, a combination of fresh pineapple, strawberry and banana. The larger cherimoyas are usually the best. Choose fruit with fairly uniform green color, free of mold or cracks at the stem end. Ripen at room temperature until they yield to gentle pressure with the palms of the hands.

Cut in halves or quarters to eat with a spoon, removing the seeds as the fruit is eaten. One three and one-half ounce (medium) cherimoya contains 94 calories.

Announce Art Center Exhibit

A collection of watercolors by the late Emma T. Watson is now on exhibit at the St. Joseph Art Center, 600 State street, St. Joseph.

The exhibit is on loan from Fernwood, Inc., and is a part of Fernwood's permanent collection of over 100 watercolors presented to it by members of the artist's family following her death.

The exhibit will be on display through Aug. 6. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Tuesday through Friday and 1 to 4 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

Emma T. Watson was born in Chicago in 1878. Rather a frail woman in her youth, she devoted time to sewing, gardening and illustrating books for her nieces. Her painting experience included china painting for a well known china shop in Chicago. Here she increased her talents and became appreciative of plant and bird details.

She married a noted architect, Vernon S. Watson and each of their homes was surrounded by magnificent gardens and plantings. She tended each one with care and her attention to detail and love of nature was carried over to her paintings.

At retirement, Mrs. Watson and her husband moved to a summer home on the St. Joseph River, south of Berrien Springs, which they called "Tranquility." Here, too, they built extraordinary gardens and plant collections. A collection of lilacs from her gardens at Tranquility formed Fernwood's Emma T. Watson Lilac Gardens in the 1940s. She tended her gardens into her eighties with only a minimum of outside help.

Summer Theatres Offer Variety

CANTERBURY

The award-winning musical, "Man of La Mancha," opens tonight at The Canterbury theatre in downtown Michigan City, Ind.

The musical will play for two weeks with the last performance scheduled July 30. Curtain times are 8 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday and 2 p.m., Wednesday, CDST.

Gene Weygandt stars as Don Quixote and Jan Elias as his Lady Aldonza, in the Michigan City production.

"Man of La Mancha" opened on Broadway in 1966 and won every possible award.

Ricardo Gutierrez is production director at the Canterbury and is currently professor of speech and theatre at Loop college, Chicago. The five-show season is staged by a semi-professional resident company under the auspices of the Festival Players Guild.

RED BARN

Red Barn Theatre in Sanga-tuck is presenting the musical melodrama, "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," tonight through Sunday, July 24.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday and 7:30 p.m., Sunday.

The original musical was adapted from the play, "Ten Nights" by Richard Kinter who also wrote the musical score and who appears in the production.

SISTER LAKES

"Not With My Daughter..." will open Wednesday, July 20, at Sister Lakes Playhouse, Sister Lakes.

The comedy by Jay Thompson will be presented through July 24 and again July 27-31. Ron Jacoby is the director.

Curtain times are 8:30 p.m., Wednesday through Saturday and 7:30 p.m., Sunday.

The play is concerned with the dilemma that faces Will Gray, a happily divorced architect, portrayed by Art Neutz, who lives in a "swinging singles" apartment house. It seems he and his neighbor, Rip Tracy, portrayed by James Slott, have a penchant for juggling girls between them.

Will's daughter, Karen, portrayed by Penny Ludwig, shows up with a problem, she may be expecting, and all the evidence points to Tracy.

Also featured are Fairlie Firari as a karate-chopping 19-year girl, Linn Macdonald of Niles as a marriage-minded school teacher, and Frank Wiley as a whiskey-drinking cab driver.

HOPE THEATRE

Hope Summer Repertory Theatre, Holland, will present two plays in repertory this week.

This are "Man of La Mancha" and "Death of a Salesman." Curtain time is 8:30 p.m., through Saturday, at the DeWitt Cultural Center.

"Man of La Mancha" will be presented Wednesday, Friday and Saturday this week and

"Death of a Salesman" will be presented tonight and Thursday.

BARN

The musical, "Something's Afoot," continues this week at the Barn theatre in Augusta. Performances will be presented through Sunday, July 24.

Curtain times are 8:30 p.m., Tuesday through Friday, 6 and 9:30 p.m., Saturday and 7 p.m., Sunday.

A musical spoof on the whole field of "whodunnits," "Something's Afoot," combines comedy and a zany plot full of murder and mayhem with music, song and dance.

The production is set in Rancour's Retreat, which is literally wired for sound, poison, mayhem and murder — all created by the Barn's master of properties, Jim Knox.

For the show he has created a shrunken head that blows a poison dart, an explosion, an electrocution, a chandelier that falls and more.

Knox, whose background includes the Washington arena where he created the original horses for the Broadway production of "Indians," has been head of the Barn's property department for 10 seasons. At the Barn, some of his most notable creations have been the mules and armor for "Man of La Mancha," the cart for "Fiddler on the Roof," and the rigging for the hanging of Judas in "Jesus Christ, Superstar."

Over the years, he has had to become knowledgeable in many fields — chemistry, painting, firearms, carpentry, metal working, furniture building and upholstery, fabrics, history of antiques, printing — and any other field that the problem of the show requires. He has a formidable file of absolutely miscellaneous information in his head — as well as file cabinets crammed with folders and reference books.

Knox is also acting in "Something's Afoot," and plays the role of the butler. His professional name as a actor is Bradley James.

DUNES THEATRE

Dunes Summer Theatre, Michiana Shores, Ind., will present "Our Town" Friday through Sunday, July 22-24.

Written by Thornton Wilder in 1938, "Our Town" the play is considered by many to be an American classic.

The play takes place in Grovers Corners, N.H., in 1903.

The stage manager narrates the action of various scenes throughout the play and carries the audience through the daily lives of the turn-of-the-century family people.

Performances will be at 8:15 p.m., Friday and Saturday and at 7 p.m., Sunday. All times are Central Daylight Savings Time.

CHERRY COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

Cherry County Playhouse at Traverse City will present two stars in the production of "God's Favorite," which will run tonight through July 31.

"God's Favorite" will star Pat Paulsen and Professor Irwin Corey.

"God's Favorite" by Neil Simon, is the story of a modern day Job, appropriately named Joe Benjamin, portrayed by Paulsen, who is warned by a "Messenger from Above," named Sidney Lipton, portrayed by Corey, that God is planning to test his faith in order to win a bet with the devil.

Pat Paulsen, who became the owner of the Cherry County Playhouse three years ago, has been appearing at the playhouse for several years. This will be Corey's first appearance at Traverse City.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Not All Gays Like Feathers

Dear Ann Landers: What on earth is "Anxious Floyd" trying to do anyway? It's hard enough to be gay and get people to accept us, then this idiot prances around like a damned fool in a feathered boa and silver wedgies and writes to Ann Landers about it.

No wonder the woman split her sides laughing. There's no need for a guy to meet his lover's wife for the first time decked out like the star of a burlesque show. What wife wants to lose her husband to a flaming queen?

I just wish you'd get the idea across to your readers that there are nutty homosexuals just as there are nutty heterosexuals. Bizarre exhibitionists make it very rough on those of us who don't go in for that sort of thing. I, for one, wouldn't be caught dead in such a rig. Thanks for any help you might give us. — One But Not Daffy

Dear One: I received several letters from other homosexuals who were also outraged. Obviously a great many straight people have a tendency to think of all homosexuals as limpwristed, swishy nances who love to dress up in women's clothes. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Resents Invite

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know if I'm being ungenerous or being taken advantage of. I don't mind attending showers for friends, but I resent being invited to a shower for someone I hardly know.

Last year three girls I went to school with (but hadn't seen for over a year) invited me to showers. I accepted, bought gifts and haven't heard from them since. Since January, five more have announced they are pregnant. I am close friends with two, but three are merely "hello" acquaintances.

Some people are flattered to be invited to anything, whether they feel close or not. I feel imposed upon. Should I realize this is a social tradition and accept it — or do I have the right to decline the invitations I don't feel comfortable about? — U.P.

Dear U.P.: Anyone has the "right" to decline any invitation, for whatever reason. If you feel as if you're being used it's as good a reason as there is.

Funny Talk

Dear Ann Landers: A word to the Northerner who signed herself "Red White and Blue."

I am a Southerner who never traveled more than 200 miles from home until I was 19. I considered my way of speaking "normal" until I went East. People kept saying, "You sure do talk funny." One woman told me I sounded like I had a mouth

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — For about eight years I've been treated with shots for allergic rhinitis. I was doing fine as long as I took the allergy shots.

Since we have moved I have been going to a Navy hospital and the doctor claims I have asthma. He has been giving me prednisone and other medicines. As long as I am in the hospital with intravenous medicine and breathing machines I get better. Last night I was rushed to the hospital just gasping for breath. After five shots of adrenaline I was sent home, I feel jumpy but the wheezing continues. I'm really upset as I don't know what to do. Should I change doctors or try any medicine over the counter that will help this constant wheezing?

DEAR READER — Allergic rhinitis does not cause wheezing or the breathing problems you describe. You have asthma. The confusion may arise from the point that some people who are allergic have both asthma and allergic rhinitis. The three major manifestations of such allergies are allergic rhinitis, asthma and hives. Some people have one of these and some have two or even all three.

The difference is really which cells are involved in the allergic reaction. In allergic rhinitis the cells in the nasal area are interacting with the allergic substance and pour out histamine or a related chemical that causes the nasal symptoms. In asthma, the cells in the air passages are affected. In hives the cells in the skin are involved in the reaction. Desensitization shots may help in some cases in all three of these conditions.

To help you sort out your problem I am sending you two issues of The Health Letter, number 8-4 Hay Fever (Allergic Rhinitis) and 8-6 Asthma. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for each with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. As these issues explain your parents may have one of these three disorders and as a child, you may inherit a different one of the three.

Treating acute asthma attacks is sometimes difficult. I would not advise a do-it-yourself approach in a severe case such as yours. That could be a very serious mistake. Better stick with your doctor and stay away from those over-the-counter, do-it-yourself efforts. You'll understand this better when you read the Health Letters that I AM SENDING YOU.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What is the approximate limit of calories that the body can convert into fat a day?

If I burn 3000 calories per day but eat 20,000 calories a day can the entire balance of 17,000 calories be converted to fat or are some of them simply excreted without being utilized?

DEAR READER — The limit is in how much you can eat and absorb. Once the calories are absorbed from the small intestine into the blood stream they will be processed and the unused balance will be used to form fat. In your illustration, about 4,850 pounds of fat.

Of course if you developed diarrhea from overeating you would not absorb all of them and those wouldn't count. Otherwise calories do count — every last blasted one of them. So if your stomach and intestines can hold the food and digest and absorb it — you will convert the total excess to fat.

Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column.

Groom Prepares Feast

NAHRAGANSETT, R.I. (AP) — When Stephen Bonzagni and Paula Santos, both 25, were married here recently, the groom prepared all the food for the 120 guests at the wedding reception.

Bonzagni, who is supervisor of food preparation for all the eating facilities at the University of Rhode Island, offered a menu of some 20 dishes, including lasagna and beef stroganoff. He spent two days preparing the food in the university's kitchens.

Mrs. Bonzagni, who says she doesn't know how to cook, admits she'll be happy to let her husband continue to do the honors as family chef.

Your Birthday

Wednesday July 20, 1977
Good things may happen to you early and often this coming year and you are certainly entitled to them. Be wise enough, however, to make the most of them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Your word to those you love must be your bond today. If you promise something and don't deliver, your default could leave a small scar. Having trouble selecting a career? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) To impress others today, you could buy it on a bit too thick. Use a thinner brush and a lighter touch on the canvas.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you're conservative and you don't bet on the "if come." Today you could wager on a long shot and find why it was just that.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There's a difference in being positive and overly-optimistic. You might not be able to distinguish between the two today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You can rely on only yourself today, and can count on only your resources. Looking for an "angel" to bail you out promises only grief.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Too much faith in associates today might be misplaced. Their analyses may raise false hopes, to set you up for a awful letdown.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Normally you take your responsibilities to heart. Today, you might goof off and be taken to task for your uncharacteristic conduct.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have innate sensitivity that equips you to deal with persons in all walks of life. This quality may desert you today and you could offend the boss.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Where discipline is required for those under your wing, you may be a shade too permissive today. Don't spare the rod and spoil the child.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your luck and good looks aren't enough to get by on today. If you want to get something done, be prepared to tough it out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In contracting for labor or services today, you aren't too sharp. You could choose the wrong help or pay too much — or both.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Stay as far away as possible today from risky ventures. They may look good, but they'll probably fall apart.

'Hit Men' Miss Crucial Witness

TAYLOR, Mich. (AP) — A Detroit police officer was in satisfactory condition under heavy guard today after saving a crucial witness in an upcoming mobster trial from an apparent assassination attempt.

The Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force said they believed the incident Monday had been set up.

Patrolman Thomas Pennybacker, 32, suffered back injuries during a high-speed car chase. Officials said hit men tried to kill the witness, whom Pennybacker was escorting from Detroit Metropolitan Airport to a secret location.

The policeman's unmarked car was nearly destroyed in the gun battle.

"There had to be a leak somewhere because only a few people knew about the witness' travel plans," said Inspector Robert Hyatt of the task force.

Pennybacker pushed the witness, David LaPonsey, to the floor of the car when the shooting began. LaPonsey was not hurt and was being held in protective custody at a secret location.

Pennybacker fired with his service revolver from behind the wheel of the car while he was driving. He managed to dodge high-powered rifle bullets that ripped through his car.

Hyatt said at least 25 shots were fired before the car was forced off the road and hit a utility pole, injuring the policeman.

Task force officers said Pennybacker had been sent to the airport in Romulus to escort LaPonsey, the prosecution's chief witness in the trial of reputed mobster Antonio Ruggiero, which is scheduled to begin Aug. 1.

Ruggiero and his younger brother, Antonino, are charged with attempted murder and conspiracy to murder a Flint numbers operator by putting a bomb in his car.

LaPonsey has been in protective police custody in another city. He was being brought to Detroit for another, unrelated trial.

Pennybacker told his superiors he was driving east of the airport when he noticed he was being followed by a dark sedan with its lights off.

He said the attacking car came up fast, pulled up on the passenger side and let go with at least 10 to 15 shots from a 30-30 rifle, Hyatt said.

Three of the bullets slammed into the side of the police car. Other shots broke the rear window and a rear side window.

"When he knew he was outgunned and figured he couldn't outrun them, the officer tried to swerve into a driveway to escape the bullets that peppered his car," Hyatt said.

Pennybacker and LaPonsey climbed out of the car and waited in the bushes until police help arrived, officials said.

Garbage Truck Drivers Strike City Of Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — City garbage truck drivers hit the bricks today in the city's second public employee strike in less than two weeks.

Pickets appeared at the central sanitation yard and nearby facilities. Residents again were asked to bring their garbage to six collection sites around the city, as they did in the one-day strike of other employees that shut off collections on July 6.

Provisions were made for emergency pickups from hospitals, said Alvin Johnson, superintendent of the solid waste division of the city department of public works.

No requests for such pickups were in hand immediately.

Garbage pickups already a day behind schedule because of the July 4 holiday and the July 6 strike.

Teamsters Union Local 214, representing the drivers and some other employees, voted unanimously Monday night to strike.

A top union official said he expected the strike to last at least two days, in which forecasts were for temperatures above 90.

Despite rumors the garbage drivers might picket the city's bus terminals — which would halt bus runs if drivers honored picket lines — no pickets appeared. Officials of the city's transportation department said all runs were normal.

The local also represents other city truck drivers, recreation department swim mobile operators and about 60 meter maids.

Walter Sacharczyk, business agent of the 1,300-member local, said that offer of three annual wage increases of 4 per cent with no cost-of-living allowance (COLA) was unacceptable.

A union official said that as of July 1, the average wage for garbage truck drivers was $7 an hour.

Earlier Monday, Sacharczyk had said a strike "might not be the most sensible thing for us to do" and that he would urge the membership to postpone its vote until the city's largest union could vote on a tentative contract agreement it reached with the city on Sunday.

After the strike vote, Sacharczyk said he was ready to return to the bargaining table at any time, and would be contacting city negotiators to set up some meetings.

Sacharczyk said he anticipated that city bus drivers would honor the garbage drivers' pickets, meaning a possible halt to bus service for some 200,000 daily riders.

Meanwhile, about 7,000 members of Council 77 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees were preparing for a mail ballot on ratification of the Sunday contract settlement.

AFCME workers staged a one-day strike July 6 after a settlement deadline passed. They returned to their jobs, but rejected an initial contract offer from the city last week.

A new agreement was reached with AFCME — and terms withheld from the news media — when the city agreed to advance the timing of base pay raises and adjust the formula for COLA, the Detroit Free Press reported Monday.

AFCME officials have urged members to ratify the latest offer, which the Free Press said would give them an immediate 4 per cent base pay hike and about 18 cents an hour in COLA raises by June 30, 1978.

Jail Hit By Gas Leak

DETROIT (AP) — A break in a nearby gas main caused the partial evacuation of the Wayne County Jail in downtown Detroit Monday, according to jail officials. The gas leak also caused some discomfort for those prisoners who were not evacuated because the jail's ventilation had to be shut off, as temperatures outside the jail hit the 90s. Officials said some of the prisoners were taken to the nearby Detroit City Jail, while others were doubled up in cells in other parts of the county jail during the three hours it took to repair the gas main.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Amtrak is considering suing one of its locally operated trains, which is so late 25 per cent of the time that passengers must be bused the last 300 miles to Chicago.

The Inter-American, operated by Missouri Pacific, winds 1,449 miles from the Mexican border at Laredo, Tex., into Arkansas and Missouri and ends in Chicago. One out of every four trips is so far behind schedule that passengers board charter buses at St. Louis for the final leg of the trip.

"Amtrak is now examining its legal options," spokesman Joe Vranich said. "This is the only railroad in the nation against which Amtrak is considering this type of legal action."

Amtrak owns most of the nation's passenger trains and contracts with 18 railroads to use their crews and tracks for Amtrak trains.

Vranich said a year of negotiating with MoPac on the poor service was unsuccessful.

Amtrak has these complaints about MoPac:

—It has "one of the worst on-time performance records for Amtrak trains of any railroad in the country."

—When MoPac trains are late, they are later than the national average.

—MoPac runs passenger trains too slowly. Both sides agree that MoPac has excellent track, but MoPac disagrees with Amtrak's insistence that passenger trains can operate safely at 79 miles an hour.

—Its freight trains interfere with passenger trains three times as often as other railroads, and this is the leading cause of delays on the Inter-American.

"This could be aired in the courthouse one day and I don't think we should get into too many details," said H.H. Olmsted of MoPac. He said breakdowns of Amtrak equipment had accounted for some delays. Amtrak agreed.

The Inter-American train is scheduled to make a daily round-trip over the route. Between March 2 and July 2, however, 29 of the 120 trips ended at St. Louis and a bus was used to complete the run to Chicago.

The Inter-American is suspended at St. Louis when it is too late to get to Chicago in time for servicing for the return trip. Trains operated by MoPac were nearly twice as late as the Amtrak national average in April, and the Inter-American was nearly three times as late — 2½ hours on the average. That was 92.3 per cent of the time. "I personally have been on the Inter-American only to be pulled into every damn siding between St. Louis and Laredo for nearly any freight train going in any direction," Vranich said.

'Buckle Up--Or Else'?

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan officials could warn state workers soon to buckle up — or else.

About 16 of the 19 Michigan state departments have adopted a mandatory seat belt policy for their employees.

And a new policy recommends that workers who refuse to wear seat belts eventually could be suspended from their jobs.

Under the current policy, workers and passengers must wear the belts while doing business, whether it is in their own cars or in state vehicles.

The new policy, suggested by the Michigan Traffic Safety Information Council, recommends that delinquent state employees be verbally warned, then warned in writing and finally suspended if they persist in not wearing their belts.

"It's good for the state to reduce our losses," said Thomas Reel, director of the Office of Highway Safety and Planning.

Figures show the state spent more than $70,000 in 1974 on worker's compensation claims filed by state employees involved in on-the-job accidents.

Departments that have not adopted the policy say it's impossible to enforce.

Reel admitted enforcement is difficult, but says the policy is aimed at encouraging the use of seat belts.

New state accident reports will bear a space for noting if the driver and passengers wore seat belts, Reel said.

Eritrean Rebels Attack

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Secessionist guerrillas fighting separate wars reportedly launched an assault on the capital and the main port of Eritrea province and attacked a key rail link in eastern Ethiopia. A spokesman for rebels seeking independence for Eritrea, in northern Ethiopia, said guerrillas attacked government troops in the provincial capital of Asmara and the Red Sea port of Massawa, among the few remaining strongholds of the government. Diplomatic sources in Addis Ababa said rebels of the Western Somali Liberation Front (WSLF) fought a series of clashes with government troops in eastern Harar province near Dire Dawa, a vital government rail head.

DENY CHARGES: House Majority Leader Jim Wright, left, of Texas, and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, of Massachusetts, have denied an ABC report they might be involved in Korean bribe scandal. Carter, Begin Opening Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and President Carter, hoping for peace in the Middle East but divided on how to achieve it, are opening critical talks on the subject.

Begin, 61, making his first journey abroad as prime minister, arrived in Washington on Monday. A formal reception was scheduled today at the South Lawn of the White House, to be followed immediately by talks between the two leaders.

Begin said on arriving in Washington he was looking forward to "important and serious talks" which he hoped would deepen U.S.-Israeli friendship and advance "real peace" in the Middle East.

The Israeli leader is carrying what he has called "a complete peace plan," plus a request for more than $2 billion in economic and military aid, according to Israeli financial sources.

While U.S. and Israeli officials both were eager for the sessions, scheduled for two days, to go smoothly, it seemed unlikely Carter and Begin would be able to gloss over some of the sharp differences between their approaches to such issues as the future of Israeli-held Arab land and the Palestinians.

Begin has kept his peace plan secret, saying that "out of courtesy" he wants Carter to be the first to see it. The Israeli leader also is a firm believer in top-secret diplomacy, and in his spring election campaign he attacked the then-ruling Israeli Labor Party for publicly offering to trade away captured land.

The peace plan is understood to suggest territorial concessions on the Syrian Golan Heights and Egyptian Sinai Desert, but not on the West Bank of the Jordan River, previously ruled by Jordan and now earmarked by the Carter administration as a future Palestinian entity.

Bell Sees Korean Probe Prosecutions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell says he expects prosecutions to result from the Justice Department investigation of the South Korean influence-buying scandal on Capitol Hill.

Bell made the statement Monday after President Carter turned down Republican requests for appointment of a special prosecutor, patterned after the Watergate special prosecutor, to pursue the Korean scandal.

Asked what the Justice Department investigations might produce, Bell said, "We expect there'll be prosecutions."

The attorney general said the investigation is being handled no differently from other cases, except that it is perhaps being conducted at a faster pace because "it touches the public interest."

Meanwhile, Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill said he would take personal charge of the troubled House ethics committee investigation of the Korean scandal.

O'Neill said he wants quick appointment of a new chief investigator to replace Philip A. Lacovara, the former deputy Watergate prosecutor who resigned last week in a dispute with Rep. John J. Flynt, D-Ga., chairman of the ethics panel. Lacovara said mutual trust needed to complete his investigation did not exist.

O'Neill said a new investigator will be able to bypass the ethics committee and take his complaints straight to the speaker's office.

"My concern is that the investigation isn't moving, and I want to get it moving just as expeditiously as I can," O'Neill said.

O'Neill said Flynt offered to turn the Korean investigation over to some other House committee. The speaker scheduled further meetings to determine whether any more action is needed.

More than 50 House members of both parties had joined in calling for Carter to name a special prosecutor, but the President said in a letter to Republican leaders:

"I have decided that appointment of a special prosecutor would be inappropriate and unwarranted, and would probably impede the (Justice Department) investigation."

He made the comment in a letter to House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes and Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker, who had held a news conference to urge the President to name a special prosecutor.

Baker said the Democrats should investigate the Korean scandal as vigorously as they did the Watergate scandal. He was not deterred Monday by Carter's refusal. He suggested Lacovara "would make a great special prosecutor."

While telling reporters he would save the House investigation, O'Neill also denied an ABC report that said he and Democratic Leader Jim Wright might be involved in the scandal.

Wright said if there is a source for that story he would "tell him to his face he is a categorical liar."

Flynt said he knows of no such evidence and also said that if he heard someone make such an allegation "I would denounce him as a liar."

O'Neill said he wants a chief investigator of impeccable reputation, and if possible one nationally known, promising that his door would be open to the investigator.

"If he thought something was impeding the investigation he could come to me and I would bring the parties involved in forthwith," O'Neill said.

Flynt said earlier that he is looking for a new chief investigator and said he did not think Lacovara's departure would hurt the investigation or delay hearings now planned for September or sooner.

Several committee members said they will support Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., in his plan to get the panel to refuse to accept Lacovara's resignation.

Flynt said he would consider that a challenge to his authority as chairman.

Rep. Bruce Caputo, R-N.Y., said the committee cannot let Flynt's feelings stand in the way of an effort to get Lacovara back.

Secretaries Are Toilers, Not Goof-Offs, Study Says

DETROIT (AP) — Most secretaries are hard workers who have little time to goof off, according to a survey of randomly selected National Secretaries Association members.

The nationwide survey results were to be discussed today at the NSA's convention, going on this week at Detroit's Plaza Hotel in the Renaissance Center.

The 458 secretaries surveyed reported they spent more than 60 per cent of their time at their desks — typing, transcribing, making and answering business calls, scheduling the boss's appointments, and compiling research and reports.

Only 0.9 per cent of their time was spent away from the desk on non-business activities, their five-day, minute-by-minute logs showed.

The results contradicted claims last year in Forbes magazine that 53 per cent of a secretary's day was spent away from her desk and juggling off.

But "consider the source" of that study, an NSA spokeswoman advised.

It was released by a wordprocessing firm which has predicted that secretaries will be replaced by word-processing centers, typing pools and new office machines, she said.

It had been pointed out that the NSA study might not exactly be objective, either, because NSA members tend to be "super secretaries" types, said President Lillian E. Billmeier, of East Lansing, a Michigan Education Association employee.

"Whether that's criticism or a compliment, we'll accept it either way," Miss Billmeier said.

The secretaries reported spending an average 13.7 per cent of their time on breaks, lunch and in the rest room; and

Lead Threat Seen In Great Lakes

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Lead in the Great Lakes could become as great a problem as mercury has in other waters, according to a Canadian environmentalist testimony before the International Joint Commission.

Richard Thomas of the Canadian fisheries and environment department said Monday that lead and other poisons usually sink along with lake sediment particles, and thus are removed from the water system.

"What we must ask ourselves now is at what point do we overload the system until it suddenly turns around and kicks us back, like it did with mercury," he said.

Thomas said recent laboratory studies indicate bacteria found in Great Lakes sediments can break down lead into a form that can be absorbed by animals, plants, and possibly humans.

From 19 to 30 per cent of the estimated 1,479 tons of lead in Lake Ontario comes from the air, mainly in the form of exhaust emissions from cars that burn leaded gasoline, Thomas said. About 62 per cent of the lake's lead comes via rivers, he said.

He added that there is an urgent need to find an accurate method of analyzing the tissues of plants and animals found in the Great Lakes to see how much of the lead is absorbed, he said.

U.S. Drops Opposition To Vietnam

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Vietnam, for two years kept out of the United Nations by U.S. vetoes, was in line today to finally receive the crucial backing of the Security Council for U.N. membership.

The United States had announced in May that it no longer opposed Vietnamese membership. It said Hanoi was cooperating in the search for American servicemen missing in the Vietnamese war and the Carter administration believed in the universality of the United Nations.

Well-placed sources said the 15-member Security Council, including the United States, was ready to adopt a resolution later today recommending membership for the newly unified Communist nation through consensus approval — not the usual show-of-hands vote.

This parliamentary tactic spares the United States a choice between voting "yes" and abstaining.

VW Shows Off Little Supercar

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Volkswagen's experimental diesel Rabbit averages 60 miles to the gallon, meets two tough anti-pollution standards and protects occupants in 40 mile-per-hour crashes, the firm says.

But it may be years — if ever — before the four-passenger vehicle is available for sale.

The experimental Rabbit, developed under a contract with the U.S. Department of Transportation, was unveiled here Monday and is headed for the Environmental Protection Agency's laboratory in Ann Arbor for testing.

DOT paid $45,000 for the car, which VW said actually cost $500,000 to develop.

VW engineers say the vehicle brings together advanced technology for safety, fuel economy, exhaust emission control and performance to demonstrate that it is possible to develop such a vehicle.

But mass producing the vehicle is another matter, according to James W. McLernon, head of VW Manufacturing Corp. of America.

"We have not tackled any of the major problems associated with mass production," said McLernon, whose newly formed company will begin assembling conventional Rabbits in Pennsylvania next year.

McLernon, who refused to speculate on how much a mass-produced version of the car might cost consumers, said it would take at least three years to develop machinery needed to build the car. More likely, he said, VW will take some of the innovative features of the vehicle and work them into existing cars.

The car is powered by a four-cylinder diesel engine and five-speed manual transmission which get 60 m.p.g. on the highway and 55 m.p.g. in the city for an average mileage of 60 m.p.g. VW engineers say the car gets 80 m.p.g. if driven at a steady 30 miles per hour.

The 89.7-cubic-inch engine is aided by a turbocharger which forces more air into the cylinders to improve performance. As a result, the car accelerates from zero to 60 m.p.h. in 13.5 seconds, comparable with the faster domestic sub-compacts.

The car, which weighs 2,072 pounds, has special steel reinforcing beams in the frame and extensive padding in the interior compartment to protect occupants in crashes of up to 40 m.p.h. into a barrier. Occupants also would be protected in head-on crashes with heavier vehicles at a closing speed of 60 m.p.h., VW engineers said.

An additional safety feature is an automatic safety belt, attached to the door on one end and side of the front bucket seat on the other, which wraps around motorists as they get into the car.

Transportation Secretary Brock Adams recently ordered that all cars built after Aug. 31, 1983, must be equipped with either air bags or the VW-type safety belts.

In the area of emissions, the car meets the toughest of federal standards contemplated for two pollutants — carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons — WITHOUT USING A CATALYTIC CONVERTER.

But the car cannot meet future standards limiting emissions of the third regulated auto pollutant — nitrogen oxides, VW engineers said.

Rabbit

If you think an economy car would put you in a compromising position, look again.

With a Volkswagen you could actually wind up with more room and comfort than you have now.

Our Dasher, for example comes in a beautifully appointed 2 door hatchback or 4 door sedan, with fully reclining bucket seats, plush carpeting, and enough room for five passengers.

In fact, the Dasher beats just about every car in its class in combined interior room and trunk space. And in a wagon, it has more cargo area than any car in its class.

Then there's our Rabbit, which has been catching everyone by surprise. Even Detroit.

To start with, it takes off like a shot. With acceleration from 0 to 50 mph in an amazing 7.7 seconds. (That's faster than a Triumph Spitfire.) And with front-wheel drive that literally pulls you around corners.

It also has more room for people than 25 other cars you could buy (including Monza, Mustang II, Pinto, Toyota Celica, and Datsun 8-210). And more room for luggage than 53 other cars. (Would you believe, with the rear seat folded down it can hold 21 bags of groceries. And with the seat folded up it still has more trunk space than a Cadillac Seville.)

Finally, we come to Scirocco, our true sports car that gives you extravagance and plain good sense at the same time.

Last year Scirocco was the Trans Am

Dasher

Cheap for cars under 2 liters. And speaking of style, the Scirocco was just named one of the "25 best-designed factory-made products available in America today," by Fortune Magazine.

It also gives you something few sports cars can offer, room for four and more trunk space than a Ford LTD II.

Yet (amazingly) a Scirocco has the same fuel economy as a Rabbit.

Both Scirocco and Rabbit get 37 mpg on the highway and 24 mpg in the city. Dasher gets 36 mpg highway, 24 mpg city. (Of course, these are EPA estimates with standard transmissions. Your mileage may vary depending on how and where you drive, optional equipment and your car's condition.)

With all this going for our Volkswagens, we suggest you stop in to your Volkswagen dealer for a test sit.

It's one way to get through the energy crisis without getting bent out of shape.

Economy without sacrifice.

SMC Nursing Course Given Final Approval

DOWAGIAC — The associate degree nursing program at Southwestern Michigan College here has received final approval from the Michigan Board of Nursing.

The Michigan Board of Nursing is the regulatory board that establishes standards for nursing in the state. SMC was granted initial approval for development and operation of the program in January, 1970.

The SMC two-year associate degree nursing program prepares students to take the state examination for registered nurses.

Full approval for a nursing program indicates the program meets all standards required by the board, and is granted after extensive study of several years operation of the nursing program involved.

Since the program was initiated in 1970, a total of 256 students have completed its requirements at SMC.

Today in History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, July 19th, the 200th day of 1977. There are 165 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1918, in World War I, German armies began a retreat across the Marne River in France after failure of their last big offensive on French soil.

On this date — In 1776, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia resolved that the Declaration of Independence be engrossed on parchment and signed by all members of the congress.

In 1870, the Franco-Prussian War began after the Prussians refused to guarantee France that they would not seek the Spanish throne.

In 1941, the Allied "V for Victory" campaign in World War II was launched in a broadcast by Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

In 1963, New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller called upon

Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater to disavow what Rockefeller described as the "radical right wing" which was supporting Goldwater for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

In 1965, President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria was deposed in a bloodless army coup.

Ten years ago: Eighty-two people were killed when an airliner and a small plane collided and crashed over Hendersonville, N.C..

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon's adviser on national security affairs, Henry A. Kissinger, had talks with North Vietnamese representatives in Paris, but there was no disclosure of what was discussed.

One year ago: The AFL-CIO pledged support to the Democratic ticket headed by Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota is 55 years old. Actor Pat Hingle is 53.

Thought for today: We learn from history that we learn nothing from history. — George Bernard Shaw, English writer, 1856-1950.

Drainage Plan For Industrial Park Needs New Outlet

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

The St. Joseph township board Monday night left the developer of a proposed 50-acre industrial park still looking for a way to get rid of storm water drained from his land.

The board approved by 5-1 with the addition of 17.3 acres to the Royallton Heights drainage district and also approved plans to collect run-off storm water from the entire 50-acre tract in a 189,000 cubic foot holding pond.

But the approval included the stipulation that water collected in the pond cannot be hooked into the Royallton Heights drain with life running through Eaton Park as proposed by the engineer for the developer, Nye's Orchards.

Supervisor Orval Benson said the township parks board had previously expressed opposition to running drain life through Eaton park. Benson said he felt the township board was obligat-

Berrien Springs Names Allred

JAMES ALLRED
Named to council

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien Springs village council last night named James Allred to the council to fill the vacancy created by the June resignation of Edwin Raelne.

Allred, of 212 South Main street, is 29 and the owner and director of Allred funeral home in the village. He has lived in the village since about 1950 and is a 1968 Andrews Academy graduate. He and his wife Karen have one child.

Allred's appointment expires with regular village elections next March.

In other areas last night, the council voted to give the village's seven employees an across-the-board 14 cents hourly cost of living wage increase.

The increase was part of the village budget adopted in May.

The council discussed but took no action on a proposal to ask Orinoko township to assume a greater share of the cost in operating the 10-member Berrien Springs village - Orinoko township police department.

The township and village currently contribute about $74,000 each to the department's 1977-78 budget of $177,833.

Village officials said that because the township has a bigger population and greater area to cover, the township should be picking up a bigger share of the budget.

No figures were suggested by council members who decided to take no action on the proposal until present contract negotiations between the police department and the two municipalities have been settled.

Also last night the council voted to renew for five years the lease at $500 yearly of a village-owned parking lot to Premier Tool and Die Co., Tudor road, and voted to read at each meeting the minutes of the previous meeting rather than mail the minutes to council members.

Reading the minutes will save on postage, council members said.

ed to support this position.

The only apparent option now, according to Berrien Drain Commissioner Carl Gaudtke, is to empty the pond into the drainage ditch running along the I-94 right-of-way, and that solution would require approval of the state highway department.

The board's action followed a report by engineering consultant Charles Barger of St. Joseph, who said that the drainage plan developed by Wightman & Associates of St. Joseph "would not add to the amount of water that would flow from this property."

The property in question — some 50 acres near I-94 and Niles road — includes the 17.3 acres added last night. The new Herald-Palladium building is being constructed on 10 acres of the 17.3 acres. The remainder of the tract already was in the district.

As proposed, run-off water collected from the tract would be collected in a 189,000 cubic foot holding pond that Barger said could handle all the water from the worst storm in 10 years for a period of one hour.

A previous proposal called for two smaller holding ponds that could handle water from the worst storm in 10 years for 15 minutes, which Maurice Rushlow of Wightman & Associates said was an accepted highway department standard.

The previous proposal also called for two feet of water to remain at the bottom of each pond all the time, while the new proposal calls for a pond that will be dry after rainwater is drained off. Rushlow proposed draining the pond through 12-inch tile running along the north edge of Eaton Park and connecting with the four-foot Royallton Heights drain, but last night's board action prohibits such a hookup.

The alternative is to empty the pond into the highway department drainage ditch — which in turn empties into the Royallton Heights drain — but Gaudtke said Cal Jones of the highway department's office at Portage said this plan would require approval of a panel in Lansing.

Gaudtke said he would submit Wightman's plan and a request to use the I-94 ditch to the highway department, but added "there's still a chance they will turn it down."

"If they turn it down, somebody probably will have to take legal action,"

He said this action could include petitioning for a board of determination that would pass judgment on the hookup plans.

Voting for the motion to approve the drainage plan as restricted and add the 17.3 acres to the district were Benson, Clerk Bill Payne Smith, Treasurer Robert DeVries and Trustees Carroll Gerbel and Carl Reschke. Trustee Ronald Griffin cast the lone "no" vote and Trustee Ernest Knauf was absent.

While discussing the drainage situation, the board also voted to pay the county road commission up to $500 to clear brush from open portions of the Royallton Heights drain between Eaton Park and Lincoln avenue.

The board also heard a complaint from Harold Fanslau, 816 St. Joseph drive, that water runoff from commercial eating establishments along Niles avenue was washing away the bank of a ravine bordering his home. Gaudtke and Benson said they would investigate the situation in the near future.

Fanslau also complained about 4:30 a.m. trash pickups at the eating places, and Benson said he would investigate that matter, also.

The board unanimously rejected a request from the county road commission that the township contribute $30,000 toward costs of creating a third lane on Hilltop road between Lake View and Washington avenues.

Smith said he was "frustrated" that the county said less than a year ago that plans for widening Hilltop were several years off and also expressed doubt that adding one lane was a wise move.

"I'm not denying the need at all," he said, "but the need is for four lanes or five...not three."

In other action, the board:

- Agreed to split costs of $15,000 with the county highway commission for grading the shoulders of secondary roads in the township.
- Appointed Realtor David Madison, 295 Janusway drive, to the township board of review. He replaces Edward Sieber, who resigned to accept a seat on the township planning commission.
- Accepted a bid of $1,150 from Palo Auto Parts of Buchanan for a 1957 Dodge fire truck the township is replacing.

Water Supply Plan Approved

BARODA — The Baroda township board last night passed a resolution giving Lake township permission to supply water to Baroda township residents along the east side of Holden road.

The board also scheduled a tentative meeting for Monday, July 25, at 7:30 p.m., with Baroda village council representatives to discuss sharing the expense of Lake township furnishing water to Baroda residents on Lemon Creek road.

In other areas, Trustee Louis Schlatt Jr., was appointed to meet with Edward F. Heyn, owner of land west of the entrance to the township park on Hess lakeoff Lemon Creek road, in regards to purchasing the land. At a public hearing held at its regular meeting last month, the board was directed to investigate purchasing the land west of the entrance for possible use as tennis, badminton, and volleyball courts. The action was taken after the board received no support to purchase four lots east of the entrance from Ben Baldwin realtor for a total of $43,500.

Emil Nitz, clerk, reported that building inspector Paul Hoge Jr., had approved building permits for an estimated $8,700 in construction work in June. Mike Stankus of Shawnee road was given a permit for $3,000 to repair and replace windows. Robert Brueck of Jamey drive was issued a permit for $5,700 for a 14 by 18-foot addition.

Nitz also read the resignation of Gary Pope, Baroda police officer, effective July 22. The police department reported 571 citations for June.

DRAINAGE PLAN: St. Joseph township board Monday night approved addition of 17.3 acres (A) to Royallton Heights drainage district and also approved plan by Nye's Orchards to collect run-off storm water from 50-acre tract in one large holding pond outlined by solid lines in center of diagram. However, board stipulated that holding pond can not be connected to Royallton Heights drain (4' tile) by running 12-inch tile through Eaton Park as shown in diagram. Approval now will be sought from state highway department to empty holding pond into open drainage ditch along I-94 which also flows into Royallton Heights drain. Acreage added to district last night includes 10 acres on which new Herald-Palladium building is being constructed. A board of determination will be established to decide whether some 23 acres (B) north of I-94 will be removed from Royallton Heights district.

COUNTY HEARING NEXT SJ Township Okays Marina

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

A proposed $1.5 million marina on the St. Joseph river stands one step closer to reality today after receiving the St. Joseph township board's stamp of approval Monday night.

Following a public hearing during which agreement was announced on rerouting the Hog Creek channel to the river, the board gave unanimous approval to project plans for the 240-slip Anchor Inn marina. It is to be located on the east side of the river between Empire avenue and May street.

Charles Schrenk, director of economic development for Berrien county, said the proposal now must be considered by the county board of commissioners, which will schedule another public hearing within the next few weeks.

Approval by the county board, Schrenk said, would enable the Economic Development Corporation of Berrien county to sell tax-exempt revenue bonds to finance a majority of the project.

The bonds would be paid off by the developers on a payment schedule established by the Economic Development Corporation, he said.

Township Supervisor Orval Benson noted during discussion that in giving approval to the project, the board reserves the right to pass judgment on specific details of the plan at a later date and that nothing will be built without further approval.

The resolution passed last night also requires the developers to provide a performance bond before any construction is started.

The path for approval by the township board was cleared when Clements announced agreement had been reached between the developers and Roger Huelsberg, 500 West May street, on a means of giving Huelsberg continued access to the river via Hog Creek.

Plans call for rerouting Hog Creek upstream around the end of the proposed marina, creating a channel about 60 feet wide — 40 feet in marina property and 20 feet in Huelsberg's property.

Huelsberg's counsel, Atty. Harry Crenger said his client was satisfied with the solution and added "we were never out to stop the marina."

A neighbor of Huelsberg —

Fred Kissell, 477 Parker avenue — appeared less happy with the solution, but was assured by Atty. Crenger that he would be better off under the new plan than he is now.

Lakeshore Official Says 2 Levies Will Whip Deficit

By ALAN AREND Staff Writer

Two tax issues facing Lakeshore school district voters in a special August election will generate more than enough revenue to offset a projected 1977-78 school budget deficit if approved, a school official said last night.

William Galbreath, assistant superintendent for business affairs, said that if both the two-mill request and a separate one-mill request pass, $486,000 would be generated. The income would be from both local and state sources.

The district had projected a deficit of $416,000 in adopting preliminary budget figures earlier this year.

The two property tax issues go before voters Aug. 13.

Galbreath made his comments before some 30 citizens at the first of two scheduled public discussions on the requests. Nearly 400 letters were sent by the school administration to district residents asking them to attend.

Another public discussion on the millage issues will be held Monday, July 25, at the junior high library.

Galbreath said the district's projected operating budget for 1977-78 calls for $5,550,000 in expenditures of which some $5,134,000 is expected to be raised through local taxes and state aid based on the present property tax rate.

If just the two-mill request is approved then $324,000 would be raised in local taxes and state aid, leaving a projected deficit of $82,000. If only the one-mill tax levy is approved then $162,000 would be raised leaving a deficit of $254,000. If both are approved, the district will be $70,000 to the good, according to Galbreath.

Galbreath also revealed last night that actual operating expenditures for the just completed 1976-77 school year amounted to $4,945,000, some $160,000 less than anticipated.

Going into the 1976-77 school year the district had a cash fund (equity) (reserve) of $495,000 of which some $120,000 was spent to offset the actual 1976-77 operating expenses.

Initially it was felt that some $280,000 of the cash fund equity would have to be used to meet expenses.

Galbreath also said that due to revisions in the state aid formula, which was recently approved, the district will receive some $50,000 more than expected in 1977-78 in state aid.

Several residents in attendance last night expressed concern over the cash equity fund, requesting an explanation of its purpose and importance of maintaining it.

Galbreath said the cash fund equity is used during what he termed "dry periods" when no tax money is coming in before the first of the year. The school board also feels that it's sound management to keep a reserve on hand in case of emergencies, Galbreath said.

Galbreath said the district also borrows money each fall in anticipation of local property tax and state aid payments. "By using part of the cash fund equity during these dry periods the amount we have to borrow to pay bills is also less. Last year the board had to borrow some $815,000 in anticipation of receipts.

"What it really comes down to is a matter of philosophy," Galbreath said. "Should we borrow to the hilt, or keep something for a rainy day."

Supt. Frederick Schmidt said the board will be able to also reduce the district's debt levy from 4.4 to 4.1 mills due to an increase in the state aid debt reimbursement fund.

Lakeshore school district currently levies 29.276 mills for operating and debt retirement.

Supt. Schmidt said that a study conducted in 1975-76 school year showed that Lakeshore ranked 449th among the states 530 public K-12 school systems by spending $1,136 per student. St. Joseph schools ranked 30th ($1,639) and Benton Harbor schools ranked 42nd ($1,578) in the same study.

"I feel the study shows that Lakeshore students and parents are certainly getting their money's worth," Schmidt said.

Concerning questions on enrollment, Schmidt said the district's K-12 enrollment has dropped some 40 students in the past three years to some 3,950 and is expected to drop another 150 in the next five years. The system has some 197 certified teachers.

Galbreath said the $5.55 million budget represents a 12.2 per cent increase over last year's actual $4.95 million in expenditures. He said he would provide a breakdown on the expected increases at next Monday's meeting, but indicated most of the increase was for salaries and increased insurance and utility costs. Salaries make up over 80 per cent of the district operating budget, he said.

One citizen wanted to know what the schools were doing about drug traffic. Supt. Schmidt said "Drugs are not a school problem... it's just as much a community problem...they (students) don't get them from us."

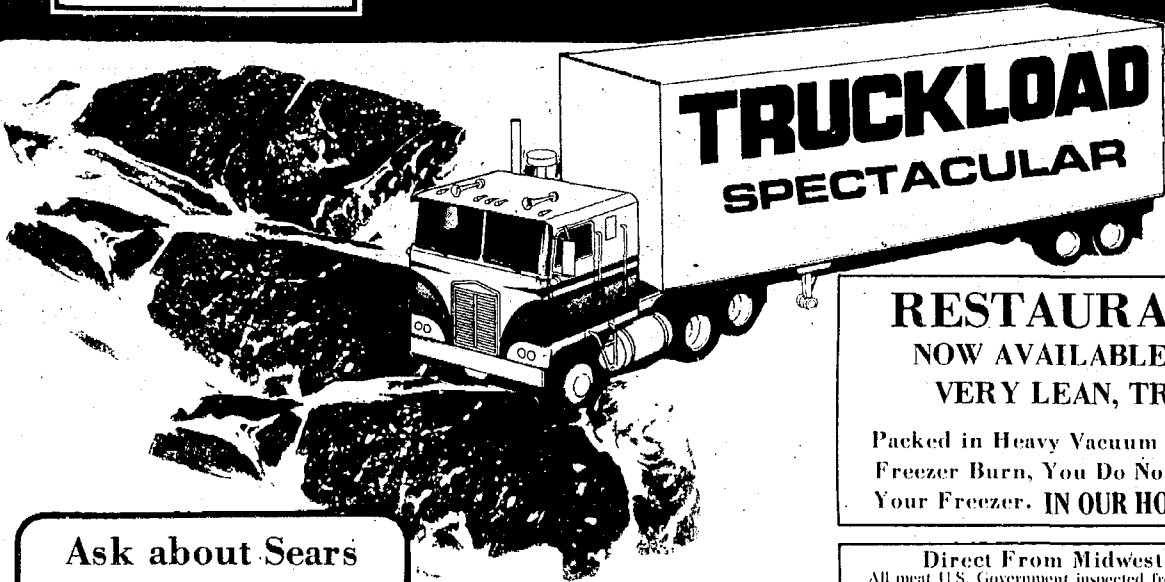

Schmidt indicated the drug problem at Lakeshore was a "small minority."

Ed Reilly, high school principal, said school officials and teachers try to do the best they can at discouraging such activity. "We prosecute and sign complaints when drug laws are violated," he said. "But we do need more recreational facilities for our kids, other than the parking lot or Glenford beach."

Bridgman Approves Doubling Of Sand Mining Site

BRIDGMAN — The Bridgman city commission last night gave Martin Marietta Aggregates an amended sand mining permit that will allow the firm to double the size of its south sand mining site in the city. The city commission action allows the firm to expand its sand mining operations from 22.7 acres to 45.7 acres on the land it owns a half mile from Lake Street along Red Arrow highway.

City Commissioner Marilyn Stanard was the only one to vote against approval of the amended sand mining permit. She said this morning in a telephone interview that she is "sick at heart" from an environmental standpoint that the timber, scrub and dunes themselves are being leveled. "There will never be another one created there," she said in outlining one of her two objections to approving the permit.

Her second objection, she said, is that the firm about a year ago said it was planning to build a $7 million sand processing plant and a related beneath-the-road tunnel. She said there is no new plant, and no tunnel and that now there will be increased traffic on Red Arrow highway as the firm transports sand for processing.

Sand truck traffic on the road has already triggered complaints from city residents, she said. "Martin Marietta has been as good a neighbor as a sand miner can be, but I still don't like" the destruction of the dunes, Mrs. Stanard said.

In his request for the amended permit, Arnold Alekna, vice president of operations for the firm, said that the firm had suddenly experienced a greater demand for sand and needed the additional dunes area for mining. The firm's present sand mining permit expires in August, 1978.

In other action last night, the commission set a public hearing on establishing a special assessment roll to pay for street paving, curbs and gutters in the Dunes Vista subdivision. The hearing will be at 8 p.m., during the council's regular, Aug. 1 meeting. The commission asked City Supt. Milford Mellon to start a study of how the city can best obtain a more adequate water system to meet growing demands. City officials said that for the fiscal year ending June 30, the city used 174,892,000 gallons of water, an average of 78,890 gallons per day. Mellon said that by comparison, for the fiscal year that ended in June, 1976, the city used 137 million gallons of water, and for the fiscal year that ended in June, 1975, the city used 119 million.

Also last night, the commission accepted the resubmitted low bid of Krohn Excavating of Bangor for improvements to Veterans Memorial park. Krohn's low bid of $9,291 was accepted July 5, but some subsequent city commission complaints over the cost prompted the city to ask the firm, and five others who bid on the project, to resubmit their bids. Krohn's new bid is for $8,461, but the firm will not assemble and install playground equipment and benches, tables and project signs, work that was included in the previous bid. No other firms resubmitted bids. The park project cost is being shared by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Mellon announced that the $39,917 Rambo road railroad crossing improvement project will begin July 25, with the road closed to through traffic until the project's completion on about Aug. 26.

Man Is Accused Of Rifle Threat

An armed man was wrestled to the ground by members of his family and Benton township police officers after he had allegedly threatened police with a loaded .22 caliber rifle. In Millburg early today, officers said.

Patrolman Robert Polmanter reported he arrested Sidney Wayne Merrill, 21, of Third and Territorial roads, Millburg, and charged him with assaulting a police officer with a deadly weapon after the 1:22 a.m. street incident.

Polmanter said a man approached officers investigating a report of a fight in Millburg and threatened to "kill someone." The man refused to drop the rifle he was holding when ordered to do so, Polmanter said. The officer reported he drew his service revolver and with dispatcher David McNeil, looked over behind a parked car as the man continued to threaten.

Polmanter said three people approached the gunman from behind and began struggling for possession of the weapon, allowing police the opportunity to subdue the assailant and disarm him.

Police identified the three people who wrestled with the gunman as: Janice Duber, 40, the mother of Sidney Merrill; Warren Merrill, 17, the brother of Sidney Merrill; and Bonnie Edelberg, 28, identified as Sidney Merrill's sister. All three live at the Third and Territorial roads address, police said.

Polmanter reported no shots were fired during the incident. He said Sidney Merrill was lodged in the Berrien county jail.

Fred H. Gracey

NILES — The shotgun death of a Niles man here yesterday has been ruled a suicide by Dr. David Speers, deputy Berrien county medical examiner.

Speers said, in making the ruling, that Fred Harold Gracey, 49, 1222 Jeanine court, died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head.

State police at Niles said Gracey suffered a single gunshot wound. The body was found under a tree at the Gracey residence by a family member.

Police said Gracey had lost his job with Whitehall Labs, Elkhart, Ind., earlier Monday.

Halbritter Funeral home in Niles is in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Gracey was born Dec. 8, 1927, in Altona, Pa.

He was a veteran of World War II with the United States Navy, and a member of Disabled American Veterans, chapter No. 33.

He is survived by his wife, the former May C. Miswick; a daughter, Rebecca M., at home; a brother, Robert, and his father, Eugene, both of Altona.

Funeral services will be held Friday, at a.m. at St. Mark Catholic church, Niles, where he was a member.

Burial will be in Mission Hills Memorial Gardens, Niles.

Friends may call at the Halbritter Funeral home, Niles, from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m., Thursday.

Kimberly Bunch Fund Drive On

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

A fund drive is underway for Kimberly Bunch, 14, who was wounded seriously last week by the accidental discharge of an air-powered pellet gun.

Mrs. James Corzine, 1246 Maynard drive, Benton township, a neighbor of Kimberly and her family, said Kimberly will require extensive care and money also is needed for family expenses while her father is staying in Ann Arbor with her.

Mrs. Corzine said contributions may be made to the Kimberly Bunch Fund at Inter-City bank. Canisters for collections also are at three business places in Benton township and Benton Harbor — Aren station, M-139 and Nickerson; Ken's Food Town; and Walt's Ideal bar, Mrs. Corzine said.

Kimberly sustained brain damage from the wound. Mrs. Corzine said. Kimberly underwent surgery and is now out of the intensive care unit at Mott Children's branch of University of Michigan hospital and was reported in "fair" condition this morning.

Mrs. Corzine said the account for the Kimberly Bunch Fund at Inter-City bank totals about $170.

Benton township police said Kimberly, daughter of Aubrey Maynard, 1282 Maynard drive, was injured when an air-powered pellet gun held by a 14-year-old boy discharged.

Poultry farmers in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and Massachusetts reported thousands of chickens had died because of the heat.

Air pollution hovered over the nation's capital and wide areas of Kentucky, Minnesota, Rhode Island and Maryland as stagnant air masses refused to pass on.

While Americans wilt under a wave of heat, Europeans, who staggered through an unaccustomed heat spell of their own last year, are enjoying a seasonable, even cool summer.

But there have been extremes. Freakish heat in Greece and Turkey has driven thermometers as high as 151 degrees Fahrenheit in the Turkish coastal city of Antalya — the ancient Antioch — and 149 degrees in the city of Diyar-baker in eastern Turkey.

Cooler-than-average temperatures have been reported so far this summer in Britain, The Netherlands, Switzerland, Portugal, Belgium, Sweden and the European part of the Soviet Union.

Until Monday, when rain drove down the mercury, West Germany was sweltering through unseasonably high temperatures in the 90s. Spain and Yugoslavia, among others, report normal or near-normal temperatures.

Body In Cabin Identified

LUDINGTON, Mich. (AP) — Police today identified a partially decomposed body found in a cabin as that of David Conrad, 29, of rural Scottville. Officials said the body was found inside a shower stall by a woman delivering linen to the Pere Marquette Township cabin on Monday. Police said Conrad was employed by the Chessie System car ferry in Ludington. His body was identified through medical records. An old pistol was found near the body. Mason County sheriff's deputies said Conrad appeared to have committed suicide and state police said he had shot himself in the head with the pistol. Investigators said Conrad had been dead at least one week.

Injunction Limits Pickets

CORUNNA, Mich. (AP) — The Strawwine Manufacturing Co. has won a circuit court injunction against United Auto Workers Local 743 to control picket line activities and limit the number of persons at each plant gate to four. Plant manager Jack Dvorak said the UAW international representative threatened disruptive tactics at a recent negotiating session. The union representative could not be reached for comment. Such threats, along with vandalism to plant facilities and gates, were cited in the injunction. Seven picketers were arrested July 12 when they refused to allow a truck enter the plant to pick up materials. The strike by 200 workers against Strawwine is in its third month. The firm makes components for recreational and mobile-modular housing industries.

Welder Severely Burned

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A Traverse City welder was in critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today with burns over 80 per cent of his body suffered in the explosion of a tank he was working on. The welder, Nelson Lee Thompson Sr. of Kingsley, was working on a 250-gallon tank that had been used to store motor oil when it exploded in Traverse city Monday afternoon. He was set afire as his 6-year-old son, Nelson Jr., watched horrified. Bystanders extinguished the flames by rolling Nelson in the dirt. After initial treatment, Nelson was transferred here. Doctors said the burns were of first and second degree.

Carter Policy Worries Asians

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's foreign policy is reported causing consternation among America's allies in the Pacific. Members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) apparently are having misgivings about U.S. policy, and have expressed their doubts both privately and publicly in recent weeks. Members of the association are: Indonesia, the Philippines, Thailand, Malaysia and Singapore.

Don't blame your age for poor hearing

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

True, all hearing problems are not alike . . . and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this non-operating model now. Wear it in the privacy of your own home to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at car level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 8813, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Paw Paw Millage Passes

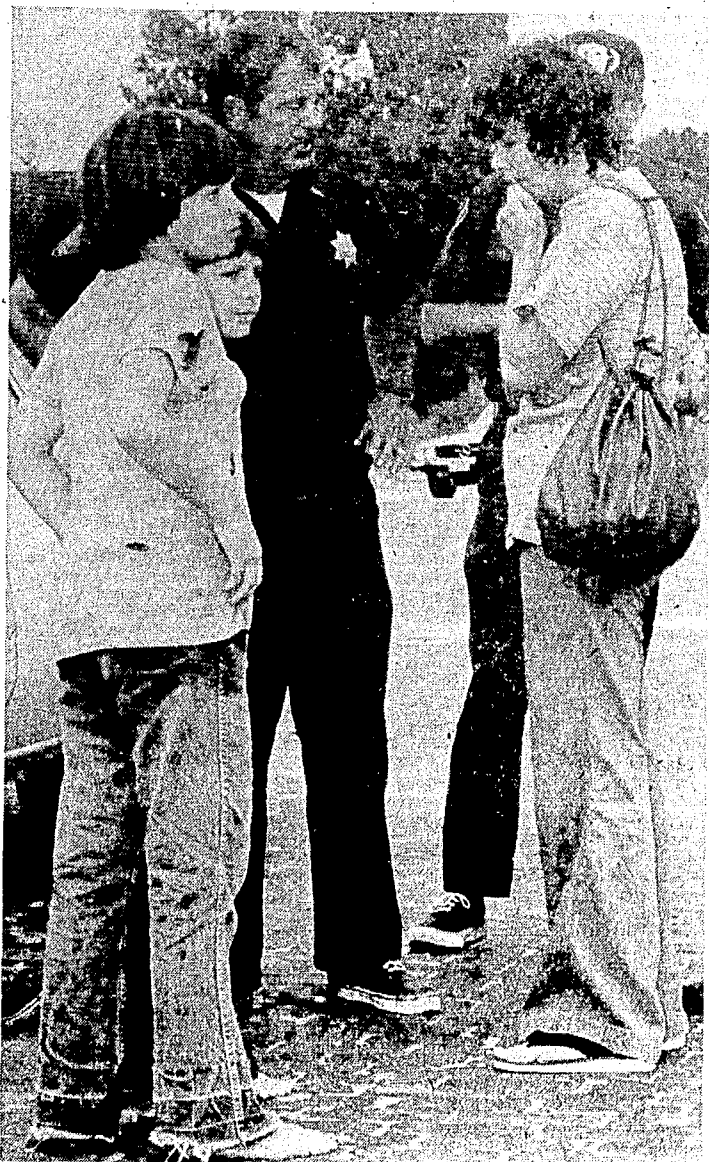

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Paw Paw voters Monday approved a 19.92 mill property tax levy for school operations by just over 100 votes. According to unofficial totals, the proposition passed by a 716 to 607 margin. The proposal had been placed on the ballot for the second time Monday after being defeated by a 450 to 342 vote June 13. It includes 18.42 mills which expired with the last tax collection, plus a 1.5 mill increase. The millage is expected to raise about $835,000 in local revenue and some $1.1 million in state aid.

Despite the 1.5 mill increase, total tax rate will go down in the district, according to Supt. Norval S.

Bovee. He said a change in the state school aid law will allow Paw Paw to receive aid for debt retirement purpose for the first time. The aid will mean that the district will not have to levy the 3.5 mills for debt retirement it has been, Bovee said. Thus, even with the 1.5 mill operational increase, the total tax levy for schools will decrease by two mills.

Ohio Man
Drowns
In St. Joe

A Cook Nuclear plant worker from Parma, Ohio, drowned last night when he entered Lake Michigan in street clothes to help his two stepsons who were struggling in rough water, according to St. Joseph police.

Robert James Conway, 45, disappeared 20 yards from shore at Silver Beach as rescuers saved his ex-wife and the two sons saved themselves.

Police reported Conway's body was recovered by Berrien sheriff's marine officers at 7:45 p.m. about 90 minutes after he disappeared.

The drowning is the 10th in Berrien county in 1977.

According to police, Conway, an asbestos worker at the Cook Nuclear plant, Bridgman, his ex-wife Janet L. Conway, 30, of Parma, entered the water after the couple's sons, Michael, 11, and Mark, 9, began struggling in rough water.

Police said the parents, both non-swimmers, also began struggling in high waves before reaching their sons. The boys, who can swim, went to try and assist their mother after she called for help, officers said.

Tom Melcher, of Grand Rapids, told police he went into the water to help Mrs. Conway and saw Conway disappear beneath the water as he reached the woman.

Melcher quoted Conway as saying: "Save my wife."

Patrolman John Nolan said Melcher, a Chessie System worker, reported Mrs. Conway began dragging him down during the rescue. Patrick Sweeney, 16, of 621 Wayne street, and David Miller, 14, of 719 Jones street, St. Joseph, went to assist and helped Mrs. Conway to shore.

The body was recovered by Deputies Paul Watt and George Past of the sheriff's marine patrol when it bobbed to the surface about 200 yards north of where Conway was last seen.

Police said an examination of the body at Memorial hospital showed death resulted from drowning.

Police said Conway had been staying at the Royal motel, while working at Indiana and Michigan Electric Company's Cook plant. The Conways were divorced and Mrs. Conway and the boys were here visiting, police said.

Mr. Conway was born March 27, 1932, in Cleveland, Ohio. Surviving are two daughters and two stepsons.

The body has been transferred from the Kerley and Starks funeral home, St. Joseph, to the Chambers funeral home, Cleveland.

George Derbin, commander of the unit, during annual field ceremonies at Michigan National Guard Training camp near Grayling. Approximately 85 members of St. Joseph unit attended ceremonies. Award is based on results of inspection, training evaluation, percentage of qualified personnel, and attendance reports.

Electric
Ordered

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Residential customers of the Fruit Belt Electric Cooperative will get back nearly $44 from the utility in the next year, the state Public Service Commission has ruled.

The firm has customers in southwestern Michigan and in two Indiana counties.

The PSC on Monday also approved average bill increases ranging from 21 cents to $3.51 for customers of 11 other electric companies. Customers of Detroit Edison will pay the smallest increase and customers of Consumers Power the largest, with other utilities' increases falling in between.

The increases will be reflected on August bills and will recoup money the companies spent for fuel and power bought from other utilities.

Under the Fruit Belt decision, homeowners who use 500 kilowatt-hours of power each month — considered average — will get a $3.55 credit on each bill for 11 months, starting with July bills.

Altogether, the utility will refund nearly $2 million to its estimated 17,000 customers in rural sections of Berrien, Cass, Kalamazoo, St. Joseph and Van Buren counties in Michigan and in Elkhart and St. Joseph counties in Indiana.

The money was collected from customers over a four-year period but held in an escrow account while the Federal Power Commission determined the final rate for power the cooperative buys from its supplier, Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Average residential customers of the cooperative now pay $19.10 a month for power. In its other decisions, the PSC approved the following average rates for August electric bills from the following companies and cooperatives:

- Detroit Edison, $23.29, up 21 cents from July bills.
- Consumers Power, $22.48, up $3.51.
- Indiana & Michigan, $17.36, up $1.26.
- Lake Superior, $21.60, up $2.05 from the rate set in May.
- O&A, $31.18, up $1.91.
- Oceana, $29.96, up $1.81.
- Tri-County, $33.93, up $1.64.
- Western, $32.38, up $2.30.
- Cherryland, $26.12, up 40 cents.
- Presque Isle, $27.83, up 34 cents.
- Top O' Michigan, $30.10, up 36 cents.

Murder Suspect
Faces 2nd Charge

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — An additional murder charge was filed in Seventh District court here Monday against Carl Lee Johnson, 19, accused slayer of Bangor's Centennial queen.

In the new warrant, Johnson is charged with murdering Terri Lynn Wilson, 18, Bangor, while in the perpetration or attempted perpetration of a rape.

Spokesmen for the Van Buren county prosecutor's office said the new charge is known as felony murder and may be filed when a death occurs during commission of another crime.

Prosecutor Ward S. Hamlin said the charge was authorized on the basis of an autopsy report which showed Miss Wilson had been sexually assaulted.

The almost nude body of Miss Wilson was found stuffed in the trunk of a car about a mile from her home near Bangor in the early morning hours of July 4.

Police said she had been brutally beaten about the head and stabbed at least 30 times. The body was found about three miles from a deserted house trailer where she was believed to have been assaulted.

Miss Wilson, a June honors graduate from Bangor high school, was reigning over Bangor's Centennial celebration when slain. She was last seen alive in a nightclub near South Haven earlier the morning of July 4.

Johnson was arrested a short time after the body was found. He is a 1976 graduate of Bangor high school and was a star athlete there before graduation.

He has been held without bond since his arrest, pending a preliminary hearing on a first degree murder charge. The hearing is to be held July 27.

He demanded preliminary examination on the second murder charge when arraigned in court Monday. It is to be held in conjunction with the July 27 hearing.

Stockbroker Fined
$12,000 For Fraud

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau
PAW PAW — A Van Buren circuit court judge yesterday warned that the county's elderly are not fair game for crimes in fining a former Grand Rapids stockbroker $12,000 on three counts of defrauding a South Haven widow.

The fine was imposed on Charles Eugene Cook, 43, Scottsdale, Ariz., by Judge Meyer Warshawsky. Warshawsky also sentenced Cook to serve concurrent jail terms of 23 days on each count with one day credit on each count. The credit is for time served in jail already. He was also assessed $740 in costs per charge.

Warshawsky found Cook

guilty on three counts of violating the state securities law June 20 after a 10-day, non-jury trial. Cook was acquitted on five other counts.

The three charges Cook was sentenced on revolved around the 1974 sale of a utility bond to a South Haven widow, Mrs. Winifred LaFever. The state attorney general's office argued during the trial that Cook sold the bond to Mrs. LaFever for $5,750, even though it was never worth more than $5,200.

The three charges alleged that he acted fraudulently in failing to tell Mrs. LaFever some of the material facts about the transaction; that he sold the bonds for substantially more than they were worth; and that he obtained money under false pretenses because he told Mrs. LaFever he would obtain the bond at market price, with only a small commission, when in fact he made a large profit.

Following sentencing, the judge denied a motion by one of Cook's attorneys, Richard L. Baysinger, that he stay the sentence pending appeal.

Baysinger had also requested prior to sentencing that Judge Warshawsky issue a written statement as to his findings of fact and law in convicting Cook. That was also denied.

Cook, who formerly ran a brokerage firm in Grand Rapids, still faces a $10 million civil suit in U.S. District court filed by 77 former customers who claim he sold them securities in violation of federal law.

Cook could have been sentenced to a maximum of 10 years in prison on the false pretenses charge.

SAUGATUCK — The 18th annual Venetian festival will be held here Saturday, July 30, with the annual Venetian regatta of the Saugatuck Yacht club kicking off the day's activities at 9:30 a.m. Other events in the one-day festival include an antique car show, skydivers, art exhibit, parade, band concerts, the grand Venetian parade of boats and a fireworks display. The festival is sponsored by the Saugatuck and Point Pleasant yacht clubs; the villages of Saugatuck and Douglas; and the Saugatuck volunteer fire department.

48th All-Star Game Tonight

Sutton, Palmer Starters

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Sutton, who has dreamed of pitching in Yankee Stadium, and Jim Palmer, who has done well in the same ballpark, drew the starting assignments for tonight's 48th All-Star Game.

Sutton, the ace right-hander of the Los Angeles Dodgers, and Palmer, Baltimore's right-handed stopper, have fired well in previous All-Star appearances. Sutton, making his first start, has blanked the American League in five previous innings, while Palmer has hurled eight scoreless innings against the National League.

Palmer started in 1970 and 1972 without picking up a decision, but was a middle-inning reliever in 1971, the last time the AL beat the NL. Besides the five straight victories, the NL has won 13 of the last 14 All-Star confrontations.

"The starting assignment is a treat in one respect. Not many guys get to do this," said Palmer, whose career record is 20-11 against the Yankees. "The All-Star Games really haven't been so one-sided recently. Only the results have been."

The AL's chances would seem better if injuries had not ransacked its pitching staff. Out with assorted ailments are Mark Fidrych of Detroit, Frank Tomana of California and Vida Blue of Oakland. California's Nolan Ryan refused to play, leaving the AL with only three starting pitchers and four relievers.

"Despite all our injuries, I still think we have an outstanding squad and we're going to break that (losing) streak," AL President Lee MacPhail said Monday.

Chub Feeney, the NL president, smugly countered

MacPhail's pep talk by saying, "We expect to do what we usually do."

Sutton relishes the opportunity to start for the NL, a dream come true for the pitcher who wanted to become a Yankee during the team's pennant-winning days.

"Only the fact that the Yankees weren't willing to pay me more than $2,000, and I would have played in Yankee Stadium before," Sutton said.

"I spent all my childhood dreaming of one day pitching in Yankee Stadium."

"I grew up on a farm in Pensacola, (Fla.), and I occupied my days pitching mental shutouts with Mickey Mantle making the fast out catching the ball near the monuments."

Sutton won't be on the mound to watch the final out, giving way to another pitcher, probably after three innings if NL Manager Sparky Anderson's game plan is not torpedoed by the AL bats.

It was somewhat of a surprise that Anderson, the Cincinnati skipper, was starting Sutton, with whom he has had a running feud, accusing the Dodgers' ace of illegal pitching practices. Anderson maintains that Sutton attempts to make a round ball square, or some other shape, through some devious method.

Enthusiasm Coming Back

DiMaggio And Mays Honorary Captains

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Remember enthusiasm?

It once was a standard piece of equipment for major league players, carried around as faithfully as a favorite bat or bent-up glove.

They are bringing it back for one more curtain call tonight at Yankee Stadium where the American League and National League meet in the 48th All-Star Game.

The pregame home plate conference held for the exchange of lineups will include a pair of honorary captains, familiar figures for New York baseball fans. And when they stroll onto the field, Joe DiMaggio and Willie Mays will help recall the glory days of baseball, days when the game and not the contract was what counted most.

It was Commissioner Bowie Kuhn who decided on the honorary captain concept for the All-Star Game three years ago, and with this year's contest in New York, baseball could not have selected two more popular ex-Stars for the honor.

Inflation has cheapened our language and there are players on hand for tonight's game labeled All-Stars, who hardly deserve the designation. That never was a problem with DiMaggio and Mays.

There are other players who aren't here by their own choice, players who preferred three days off rather than playing one more game in the long season. And the real Stars, DiMaggio and Mays, shudder at that thought.

"A lot of times, I hear guys say they don't want to go," said Mays. "They'd rather have the three days off."

"Well, let me tell you this: Once you play in one of these games, you always want to come back. Just being in that clubhouse ... what a thrill," said Mays, who was in 24 All-Star Games.

"Some people say the All-Star Game isn't what it used to be. Don't you believe it. I've been out of baseball three or four years now and when I have to watch it on television, I wish I was there."

What was it about the All-Star Game that turned on Mays? It was the innate enthusiasm that Willie brought with him to the ball park every day.

Before Mays became one of the National League's best, DiMaggio was one of the best in the American League. And, like Mays, he was a true All-Star.

"I looked forward to playing in these Games," he said. "I enjoyed it so much. I'm delighted to be back. I'm just an old, broken down Yankee, but I'm happy to be here."

Again, enthusiasm. Other players can see it. Lou Boudreau, manager of the American League team in 1949, said it.

"I was in the hospital that year and Boudreau went with 24 players," said DiMaggio. The manager had left the vacancy for the Yankees centerfielder. "He told me, 'I know you'd want to be there,'" said DiMaggio.

It was a tribute paid by one professional to another.

Veeck Is Now Against Change

CHICAGO (AP) — In a small corner of the Chicago White Sox's exploding scoreboard is a pitchometer, designed by Bill Veeck in 1962.

Its purpose was to speed up the game by timing a pitcher and forcing him to deliver the ball within the allotted 20 seconds when there were no runners on base.

It sits idly now, not to be used in this day and age.

"No, I haven't showed down or mellowed," said the 61-year-old Veeck, who last season came back to baseball and purchased the White Sox.

Now, he has them leading the American League West.

"Years ago I was for change, then I noticed a social trend," said Veeck. "A few years ago, a nostalgia wave hit this country. You heard music you hadn't heard in 20 years. It was then that I stopped talking about changes and speeding up the game."

"In the 1960s there was a period of unrest, speed and violence in this country. There was the war in Viet Nam. There was mugging, meanness and violence. In this spirit, football and basketball were natural sports."

"I talked about change then, but now I have stopped," continued Veeck.

"I realized the people were seeking social stability and baseball was the unchanged sport that gave them what they wanted."

"Suddenly people were tired of violence. They were seeking stability and escape. They were tired of concrete, steel and artificiality."

"They found baseball again, a sport to be savored," said Veeck. "The game is perfect for the time right now and that's one of the reasons attendance is up all over the country."

"During the '60s and early '70s, I advocated change. I went around to 20 campuses a year giving speeches. Nobody threw any rocks at me but I felt the atmosphere was prepping. I thought we had to change. But not now. Where else but at a ball park can you stand up and yell and holler your head off without landing in the pokey?"

It all reflects in White Sox attendance figures. The White Sox are on a splendid pace, having attracted 866,819 fans in 41 home dates this season. They are averaging 21,145 a game, and if they remain in contention or win their division, they possibly could surpass the club record of 1.6 million set in 1960. They are currently 251,625 ahead of last season.

TENNIS

CINCINNATI — Third seeded Harold Solomon swept the first five games and went on to defeat fourth-seeded Mark Cox 6-2, 6-3 to win the singles title in the $100,000 Western Tennis Championships.

The victory was Solomon's straight victory over Cox. Solomon never lost a set in the week-long tournament.

YACHTING

NEWPORT, R.I. — Enterprise, skippered by sailmaker Lowell North, beat Independence by two minutes and 19 seconds in observation trials for the America's Cup yachting race.

Enterprise now has two victories and one loss in the observations trials.

Later in the day, Independence defeated Enterprise by 49 seconds.

CANOEING

KLAGENFURT, Austria — France and West Germany won the first gold medals at stake at the world canoe and kayak wildwater championships on the Lieser River.

GENERAL

BOYS LEAGUES

NORTH LINCOLN — The Jets won the league championship with an 8-7 victory over the Reds. Winning pitcher Mike Montel hit a triple. Doubles were collected by Jeff Williams, George Seifert and Allen McKee. In the sixth when the Reds had the potential tying and go-ahead runs on second and third with two outs, Scott Seibert made a diving run-saving catch.

FAIRPLAIN — Babe Ruth — Brodley Wheeler threw a one-hitter as the A's downed the Cubs 7-2. Mike Damico got two hits for the winners and Dave Russell added a double. The A's captured the second half league title.

ST. JOSEPH — The Mets concluded a 10-2 season by edging the Dodgers 2-1 on a bases-loaded hit in the last inning by Gary Lane, who went three-for-three. Winning pitcher Billy Ross had a triple, while Tom Burrows had three hits and Chad Poole two. Jay Vlodich went four-for-four for the Dodgers.

BARKS 'EM OUT: Los Angeles Rams quarterback Joe Namath barks out signals during first day training camp drills Monday in Fullerton, Calif. Namath was acquired from the New York Jets two months ago. (AP Wirephoto)

Namath Is No. 2 QB

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Joe Namath doesn't think defenders will be any tougher on him as a Los Angeles Rams quarterback than they were during his 12 years with the New York Jets.

There had been reports that opponents took it easy on him in recent years because the Jets were not in title contention.

"I think they've been as physical on me as they could be on anyone," the new member of Rams said at a news conference Monday. "If any man goes light on any opponent, it comes out in the films and the coaches won't like it at all. The name of this game is to harass the quarterback."

Namath became a free agent this year and was signed by Los Angeles May 12.

He worked out with the club for the first time Monday.

Namath currently is the No. 2 quarterback, behind young Pat Haden, the former University of Southern California star who earned the job last year.

Namath admits he wants to be No. 1 and will work hard to become the starter. He also would like to call his own signals even though he knows the Rams' coaches have been doing it the past three seasons since John Hadl was traded to Green Bay.

"I'm trying to do well in a new situation," the 34-year-old Namath said. "This is a new situation, new numbers and new terminology. Until everything becomes familiar, I can't be confident."

Namath even listened in on conversations between coaches and defensive linemen in his bid to become familiar with the Rams' system.

Asked if he considered himself the starting quarterback, Namath said, "No ... I'm second string."

"Pat and I talked last night. He said he felt strange in this situation, but as long as I've been playing football, the man who does the best job starts. We all have a common goal, to win."

Haden agreed it would be an interesting situation and said he would learn a lot from the veteran who has been assigned as his roommate during the early training period.

Bargain Center Is Leader

Bargain Center moved into first place in the Plangger's Girls Softball League Monday.

Bargain Center ripped Coloma Dairy Queen 14-7, while Harding's was upset by Babe's 7-2. The win was the first in eight games for Babe's. Bargain Center now stands 7-1 and Harding's 6-2 in league play.

In Monday's other game Harker's Orchard got by Great Lakes 13-7.

Mo McCrone and Kim Doty each collected three hits in Bargain Center's win. Kris Stover and Lori Casey each added two hits. Brenda Higgenbottom and Roberta Salay each belted out a pair of hits for the losers. Carol Voss was the winning pitcher.

Beth Sherry was the winning pitcher in Babe's victory. Marge Caldwell collected three hits for the winners. Jamie Skukiewicz had two for-Hardings.

Sue Partington, Mandy Smith and Elaine Morrison all collected a triple and a single in the win by Harker's Orchard. Tammy Vlodich was the winning pitcher.

Rozelle Attacks Atkinson Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Atkinson's blow to the head of Lynn Swann has no place in professional football, according to National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"I am fully convinced that there is no place in professional football for the kinds of fouls committed by Atkinson," Rozelle said in a statement read in federal court Monday.

"Such conduct is clearly outside the rules and calculated either to disable opposing players or to 'intimidate' them into less effective performance."

"If there is to be an 'intimidation' factor in professional football, it must be the kind that results from superior playing performance—not from unbridled or calculated violence," he added.

Rozelle's comments were made in a final report on disciplinary action taken against Atkinson, the Oakland Raiders' defensive back, following the Swann incident and an incident in which New England's Russ Francis suffered a broken nose when hit in the face by Atkinson last year.

Rozelle was not present Monday for the sixth day of Atkinson's $2 million suit against the Pittsburgh Steelers and their coach, Chuck Noll, but his comments were read by Steelers' attorney James MacInnis.

Rozelle said visual evidence of the Swann incident is inconsistent with Atkinson's claim that he believed Swann was the target for a pass from quarterback Terry Bradshaw.

Olympic Tennis, Basketball Starts

Basketball and tennis action got underway Monday in the Berrien County Olympian Games.

In the boys 13 to 14-year-old basketball division at Fairplain junior high Lafayette bumped Buchanan 58-56, Benton Harbor No. 1 downed Robins 46-36 and Benton Heights topped Benton Harbor No. 2 39-35. Lafayette was scheduled to meet Benton Harbor No. 1 today.

The 9-12 games Monday saw Lafayette edge Union Park No. 1 37-36, Robins trip Seeley McCord No. 1 25-22 and Union No. 2 defeat Seeley McCord No. 2.

Berlin Win

For Senneker

GRAND RAPIDS — Professional race driver Bob Senneker of Dorrr drove his 1977 Camaro to a one-car-length victory in the 25-lap feature race for late model stock cars Saturday night at the Berlin Raceway.

Senneker took over the lead on the 22nd lap and staved off Johnny Benson who was looking for the 50th win of his career for the win. Early race leader Gail Cobb of Grand Rapids was third.

run, a double and a single. Kip Wilken drove in three runs with a homer and a double. Todd Ernsberger and Keith Armitage each chipped in with a pair of hits.

Stevensville scored five runs in the first inning and were never headed in the first game.

Tim Shearer slammed a homer and a double and Tim Rzepka belted two doubles for the losers. Bill Biggs also homered.

Mike Woods and Mike Mervenne each collected three hits in the doubleheader for Stevensville, now 8-6. Among Woods' hits were a home run and a double.

Niles Splits; Keeps Gray Division Lead

Niles Legion baseball team stayed atop the Gray Division of the Blue-Gray League Monday night despite losing a league game to Stevensville.

Stevensville took the opener 12-8. Niles came back to grab the non-league nightcap 8-3. In Monday's other action, Three Oaks won a forfeit victory over Hartford.

Bill Mann pitched a four-hitter in the second game for Niles, now 11-3 in league play. South Haven is a close second to Niles with a 12-4 record in the Gray Division.

Joe Driebelblis was the hitting star for Niles with a home run, a double and a single. Kip Wilken drove in three runs with a homer and a double. Todd Ernsberger and Keith Armitage each chipped in with a pair of hits.

ALLEN J. 'JIM' GRAMS
Skeet And Pistol Champ

At Sportsman's Club Picnic Grams Doubles Pleasure

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

ARDEN — The Berrien County Sportsman's Club annual summer picnic showed Allen J. "Jim" Grams, 33, of Stevensville, is a double threat. Grams, who began shooting skeet steadily about four years ago, was "high gun" with 48 out of 50 possible clay birds on the skeet field — and took first in a heavy turnout on the pistol range with a score of 50 out of 50, with 1 of his 5 shots in the tiny "X" ring.

Picnic chairman, Ken Ledyard pronounced the annual Sunday picnic a "real success" with a turnout of about 1,000 people, some 250 chicken dinners served, and games for adults and children including an egg loss, log-rolling in the club pond, a tug-o-war across the pond and other activities, plus a muzzle-loading shooters' demonstration.

Grams beat some of the club's finest skeet shooters with a perfect 25 in the first round, and 23 in the second for a total of 48. Phil Rotzien was second with 47, and tied for third at 46 were Manny Stoes of Stevensville and Ron Solomons of South Bend.

Grams says he rarely practices with a pistol — once in the past year, for example — yet his score was best of 74 targets tallied Sunday by Pistol Match

Chief Walter Pymu and aides Robert Terlisner Sr. and son Robert Jr.

Second went to Al Rosinski of St. Joseph with 49 and one in the "X" ring, and third to Ron Ackerman of Baroda with 48 and one in the "X" ring.

A veteran showed his stuff on the rifle range, as Andrew Cutter, 62, of Benton Harbor, outshot men half his age.

Cutter took first in bigbore centerfire with 47 out of 50 points, and first in a brief .22 rimfire match with 49 out of 50.

Rosinski was second in bigbore with 46 and two shots in the "X" ring, and B.L. Brown of Benton Harbor and John Nelson of St. Joseph tied for third at 46 and one "X". Rosinski and Brown also were second and third in rimfire with 46 and 41, respectively.

Pistol and rifle winners shot for medals and cash prizes. More than two dozen targets were shot for score on the rifle range.

Archers held a "poker shoot" — shooting from 15 yards at poker cards, and the winner was Ron Hayden of Buchanan with a pair of sixes, according to chairman Daniel Hauch.

There was no trap shooting Sunday in order to avoid possible injury to picnic-goers who might stray onto the big, grassy trap field, according to chairman Jess Bowman.

Steel shot will be mandatory only for hunters using 12-gauge shotguns while waterfowl hunting next fall in areas designated for non-toxic shot. The amendment is intended to clarify a misunderstanding about 10-gauge guns that resulted from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's announcement of the 1976 regulations. The Service specifically exempted smaller-than-12-gauge shotguns from the steel shot regulations last year, but did not cover the 10-gauge in its press release. The new rule will permit use of lead shot for the 10-gauge as well as all other gauges other than 12-gauge.

The zone two American Salmon Derby, which runs from St. Joseph to Manistee on Aug. 27 through Sept. 5, will offer $15,500 in U.S. Savings Bonds and $26,000 in merchandise prizes.

Derby chairman Terry Mack of Ludington says the five fishermen with the five largest salmon will divide the Savings Bonds, with the winner getting a $10,000 bond.

Merchandise prizes will include graphs, downriggers, smokers, rod and reels, lures and fillet knives.

Entry tickets and further information may be obtained at sport shops or by writing: American Salmon Derby, Box 70, Ludington, Mich. 49431.

There are several bills currently under consideration in the Michigan legislature which should concern sportsmen. The following is a resume of some important ones:

House Bill 4557 would allow a state resident to buy a second state park sticker for $1 for a second vehicle. The Department of Natural Resources says the bill could cost the department as much as $100,000 a year.

Senate Bill 375 would increase the mandatory fine for killing a deer or bear to $400. In supporting the bill, the DNR points out that recent surveys show that poachers kill about 90,000 white-tails annually which are worth $13.5 million to the state's economy.

House Bill 4501 would outlaw shining for deer if there is a bow or firearm in the vehicle. Under the present law, conservation officers must prove the gun was unsecured or was not locked in the trunk. Lawmen report that this is often impossible to prove as weapons can rapidly be slipped into the trunk in many new cars or zipped in a case.

Senate Bill 405 would prohibit anyone convicted of a second fish or game law violation in a 10-year period from buying a license to hunt, fish or trap for three years. In support of the bill to crack down on repeat violators, the DNR notes one 34-year-old outlaw who was arrested 21 times in a 17-year period. Another person was arrested nine times in a seven-year span.

House Bill 4806 would transfer all rights-of-way abandoned by railroads to the DNR for recreational use and preservation for future railroad use.

House Bill 4505 would require the DNR to hire trappers to kill coyotes. The department opposes the bill, pointing out that if 10 trappers were hired, at a cost of around $250,000 annually, they would have no significant impact on the coyote population.

Senate Bill 537 would do away with the free fishing license for wives. It would also reduce the cost of a fishing license from $5 to $1. The DNR estimates this would reduce fishing license revenue approximately $113,500, even though about 220,000 wives would be expected to buy separate licenses. If the free license for spouses was eliminated, and the present license fee retained, the department estimates the state would collect about $1.5 million more than it is now.

Senate Bill 531 would make it illegal to carry a firearm or bow and arrow in areas open for hunting turkeys during the special spring season. The DNR is urging passage of the bill, pointing out that persons without permits are killing turkeys.

The Smith family of Beaverton had a double reason for celebrating Sunday when both father and daughter won titles in the Michigan State Muzzle Loading Championships.

Dick Smith was declared 1977 state champion by his competitive shooting in several events. He placed first in one category — the pistol or revolver aggregate.

Other winners were George Booth, South Lyon, Flint offhand aggregate; Carol Potts, Livonia, women's aggregate; Lloyd Dicks, Saline, musket aggregate; B. K. Scott, Grand Blanc, bench aggregate; Bob Banhagel, Holly, offhand aggregate; R.K. Scott, Grand Blanc, cross-striking; and Gordon Marshall, Ionia, Roy Keeler aggregate.

Cousins Win In Mollhagen Contest

Rich Roberts of Scottdale and his cousin, Steve Roberts of St. Joseph, took the top two places in the Mollhagen fishing contest which ended Sunday.

Third place went to Fred Fenrick of St. Joseph, who caught his fish aboard a charter boat operated by Ken Neidlinger of St. Joseph.

Rich Roberts' winning fish was a 24-pound, 2-ounce chinook salmon. Steve Roberts had a 20-pound, 10-ounce chinook, while Fenrick caught an 18-pound, 14-ounce chinook.

Winners in the nine-day contest received prizes of fishing gear. The winners received their awards at a "bean boil" party Sunday afternoon at Mollhagen's Fisheries in St. Joseph which was attended by more than 250.

Eagle Roosting Sites Are Saved

The National Wildlife Federation has announced an $837,000 land acquisition program to save two American bald eagle roosting sites, in California and Illinois, from human intrusion and development.

In Siskiyou county, California, the citizens' conservation group is acquiring 1,200 acres of privately-owned land between the Modoc and Shasta National Forests. These tracts will be added to the 4,800 acres of government-owned land to comprise a 6,000-acre sanctuary known as the Three Sisters Bald Eagle Preserve.

With its towering Ponderosa Pines, the preserve is the major eagle roosting site in the lower Klamath Basin, near the Oregon-California border. There last February wildlife biologists counted 418 bald eagles — the largest known concentration of the threatened national bird in the Lower 48 states.

Ringneck Could Face Extinction

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Game experts in the pheasant states of Minnesota, South Dakota, Michigan, Iowa and Nebraska say the ringneck pheasant could face extinction without conservation programs.

They say the pheasants are victims of highway construction and urban sprawl that have destroyed considerable habitat.

Stepped up land clearing and drainage activities by farmers who feel more land is needed to ease the cost-price squeeze are also working against survival of the ringnecked pheasant, officials say.

Game experts stop short of saying the birds will follow the extinction path of the carrier pigeon, but all agree the ringneck pheasant has seen better days.

In Minnesota, Roger Holmes, state wildlife supervisor, says an increased emphasis is needed at the federal and state levels "to encourage farmers through long-range conservation programs to maintain and develop habitat for wildlife."

Holmes adds that "cost sharing rates must be adequate to compensate the farmer for his loss of potential crop production."

South Dakota, which once considered itself the country's pheasant capital, has now "reached the point where it might have as many pheasants as it is willing to pay for," says Jack Mervin, the state's game, fish and parks secretary.

The South Dakota legislature approved a pheasant restoration program requiring a $9 stamp. The money from the stamp, along with a $125,000 special appropriation, will be used to match federal funds and pay owners for developing pheasant habitat.

Big Lakes Fishing Booklets Available

If you catch or cook fish from the Great Lakes, you might be interested in four recent publications from the Michigan Sea Grant Program, a cooperative effort of The University of Michigan and Michigan State University.

"Great Lakes Fish Cookery" is a free 15-page cook book with advice on how to cook often-ignored species like burbot, carp, sucker (freshwater mullet) and even the lowly alewife. All 50 recipes, for everything from Kalkaska Creole to the Petoskey Paprika Bake, have been kitchen-tested at the Michigan State University.

"Salmon Eggs: Bait and Food" is a free four-page leaflet outlining methods for turning salmon eggs into caviar or preserved bait.

"Getting the Most from Your Great Lakes Salmon" is a free 27-page book giving basic information on how to get the most eating enjoyment from Great Lakes salmon. It includes instructions for filleting, skinning, freezing, canning, smoking and making salmon jerky. Methods are also detailed on how to avoid high levels of pesticides in fish flesh. This book was produced by the Wisconsin Sea Grant Program.

All four publications can be ordered from the Michigan Sea Grant Publications Office, 2200 Bonisteel Blvd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48109.

Athletics Among Cuts If SJ School Tax Vote Loses

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

The St. Joseph board of education voted last night to cut all athletics and other extra curricular activities if 2.5 mills in operating taxes fail at the polls Aug. 8. The extra curricular cuts are part of $368,300 the board voted to slash from the budget if the district doesn't get the extra operating taxes.

The board also voted to slash $646,000 from the proposed 1977-78 operating budget whether the millage passes or not. This was recommended by a citizens budget task force and announced previously. Some 50 people were present at the special meeting at Upton junior high as the board voted unanimously on the two separate budget cuts.

Board President John Pielemeier said the $368,300 would approximate the $352,000 that the 2.5 mills would bring in next year. Pielemeier said this reduction would include financing of sports and extra curricular activities. He said it also would eliminate the optional sixth hour class at senior high.

Meanwhile, a group of private citizens announced a campaign to support the millage, with an organizational meeting set for 7 p.m. tomorrow at Jefferson school. The announcement was by Gale Cutler of Whirlpool Corp. and Roger Curry, executive director, Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce. Curry said $1,150 has been raised so far to help finance the campaign. He emphasized that the effort is by private citizens and not the project of a company or Chamber of Commerce. The meeting is open to all interested people, Curry said.

Following a lengthy discussion of fiscal problems, the board voted 4 to 1 not to schedule another millage election to ease the 1977-78 budget, should the proposition be rejected Aug. 8. Ray Dumke opposed it.

The 2.5 mills were scheduled for the Aug. 8 vote after being defeated in June.

Supporting the decision were Board President Pielemeier, Treasurer Freda Sparks, and Trustees Dr. John Porritt and Dorothy Averill. Absent were Board Vice President James Mason and Secretary Dr. Joseph Naines. Pielemeier summed up problems, saying the district is caught in "a squeeze play" by rising costs of basic items, salaries and energy and declining revenue from the state.

The list of $368,300 in cuts voted in the event the millage proposition fails includes:

All district athletics, $89,000; all salary subsidies for directors of bands, orchestras, clubs, plays, and the school annual, $11,300; closing the swimming pool, $8,000; elimination of optional senior high sixth hour, with elimination of nine teachers, $90,000; elimination of two junior high teachers, $20,000.

Close planetarium, $13,000; reduction by one-half all elementary instrumental music, art, vocal music and physical education, $81,500; eliminate all district field trips, $9,000; eliminate athletic director's extra pay for duties when released from regular classes, $11,300.

Reduce library aides to one-half time, $10,200; eliminate balance of adult education salary subsidy, $3,000; a 10 per cent reduction in teaching supply budget, $14,000.

The $646,000 in reductions that will become effective regardless of the millage vote were detailed in this newspaper on June 2, following a task force meeting. They included personnel, supplies, utility usage, transportation, some extra curricular activities, and curriculum improvements and maintenance projects requested by teachers and principals.

Dowagiac Okays $50,000 Depot Renovation Pact

DOWAGIAC — The Dowagiac city council last night approved a contract with the Michigan Department of State Highways for a $50,000 grant to renovate the Dowagiac railroad depot.

According to Henry Graper Jr., city manager, the grant will allow operation of the depot as a transportation center. The center will serve as depot for Amtrak train service, Indian Trails and Greyhound bus service and the community's Dial-A-Ride service.

Under the contract for the grant, the city agreed to operate the depot for 10 years. The city will receive fees for sale of bus tickets while Dial-A-Ride will pay for use of a portion of the building. Amtrak and the city will share maintenance and custodial costs.

Amtrak in April began a two-year trial program of making Dowagiac a stopping point on its runs between Detroit and Chicago. Currently buses stop at a parking lot adjacent to a downtown service station.

Graper said that under the contract, should the city stop its transportation center operation before the end of the 10-year period, it would have to pay back a portion of the $50,000 grant on a prorated basis. The city bought the station several years ago from the former Penn Central railroad.

In other action, the city approved a lease with Holbury Precision Plastics, Inc., Dowagiac, through the city's Economic Development Corporation (EDC) for a building in the city's Big 'D' industrial park.

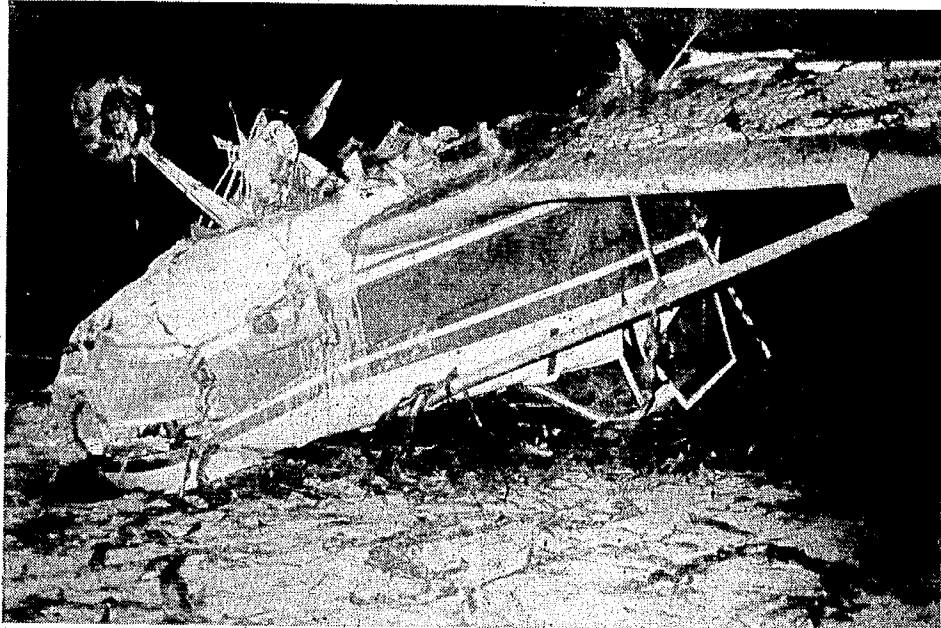

The lease will charge a monthly rental of $1,498 for the building which was recently vacated by Glencroft, Inc., a foam products manufacturer. The EDC constructed the building. The lease runs through March, 1997.

The council learned that the Michigan Department of Natural Resources has granted the city an extension for a permit to dump discharge from the city's sewage treatment plant into Dowagiac creek. The city is constructing a new sewage plant and the current permit expired this year. The extended permit will expire in March, 1979. The new plant is scheduled for completion in 1978.

A grant toward a $7,400 project for rehabilitating a portion of Riverside drive has been approved through the Sauk Trails Resource Conservation Development council, the council learned. The grant will provide for alleviation of an erosion problem on the street. The city will provide 25 per cent of the grant in the form of services and equipment. The Sauk Trails council is a clearing house for conservation projects in Cass, Berrien and Van Buren counties. Fifteen parcels of land near Lee Memorial hospital were rezoned from residential to public facility designation which will allow for future expansion of hospital facilities.

The council asked Graper to contact the state highway department for more information on a highway department proposal to widen North Front street which carries M-51 through the north portion of the city. Councilman David Griner said he felt too many trees would be lost with the widening.

The council granted permission to the Southwestern Michigan college summer jazz band to hold two concerts in Water Tower park July 20 and Aug. 3. The request came from SMC band director David Purcell. The council also granted permission to the Dowagiac Daily News and radio station WDOV to sponsor a kiddies parade in the downtown area July 29 as part of "Ridiculous Days" sidewalk sales day.

CROP DUSTER CRASHES: State police from Benton Harbor post report this Cessna 188 monoplane crop duster crashed at 9:20 p.m. Monday in Hagar township and was totally destroyed. Trooper Greg Fouty said pilot of $16,000 plane, Raymond Leroy Hill, walked away from wreckage which was upside down and tailless on Bessemer road, off Red Arrow highway. Hill, flying for plane owner Billy Church of Sodus, told police he had completed a pass over a tomato field unable to gain altitude. Plane crashed in cornfield, striking above-ground gas company pipe, slammed into embankment and flipped onto road. Cornfield is owned by Bob Hadlow, 3013 Bessemer, Fouty said. (Cliff Stevens photos)

Dowagiac Board Readies For Talks

DOWAGIAC — St. Miller, assistant school superintendent, was appointed last night by the Dowagiac school board as chief negotiator in upcoming contract talks with non-certified school personnel.

Supt. Lionel Stacey was appointed backup negotiator in the talks with the Michigan Education Associates Organization (MEAO), an affiliate of the Michigan Education Association (MEA). The non-certified personnel include teacher aides and hall duty supervisors. The group is not currently under contract.

In other business, Richard Sifford, board president, urged board members and the public to attend an informational meeting tonight called by the Lewis Cass Intermediate school district on its ballot proposal for a .75-mill increase in special education funds. The meeting will be held at Dowagiac high school at 8 p.m. The proposal would raise the intermediate district's special education millage to 2.25 mills. The special election on the proposal is slated next Monday.

Faces Charge

BUCHANAN — Police here said a Buchanan man was arrested this morning in connection with alleged attempted theft of wheels from a car parked at an auto dealership about 3:30 this morning.

Lodged at the city jail here on a charge of attempted larceny from a motor vehicle was Charles J. Phillips, 22, of 128 Elizabeth street, Buchanan.

Police said the arrest came after they received a report that a man was jacking up a car at the Campbell-Farr Ford agency on Red Bud trail.

A lug wrench and bumper jack were confiscated at the scene, police said. Officers said none of the auto's wheels had been removed.

Delinquent Dad Gets Jail Term

By DENNIS COGSWELL

PAW PAW — A South Haven man was found in contempt of Van Buren Circuit court yesterday and sentenced to six months in jail for failing to pay arrearages totaling $3,040 for two children on ADC. Judge Meyer Warshawsky said that Charles B. Martin could relieve himself of the jail term by paying $500 on the arrears, according to the Van Buren Friend of the Court office. The Friend of the Court office reported Martin was arrested in Marquette last week on a bench warrant charging him with failure to appear in Circuit court on the arrearages in March. Martin had been stopped for a traffic violation, the Friend of the Court office said and a computer check found the outstanding warrant.

PILOT ESCAPES: Raymond L. Hill, 35, of 5721, Grand avenue, Coloma, complained only of elbow injury after crop dusting plane he was piloting crashed. Hill also is manager of Watervliet airport. Plane is owned by Billy Church of Agri Air Crop Dusting service, Sodus. It was second crash in a week for an Agri Air plane. Church escaped uninjured from a crash July 13 while dusting in Cass county. Interviewing Hill is State Trooper Greg Fouty.

Motorcyclist Hurt In Crash

St. Joseph township police reported a motorcyclist suffered a broken pelvis and cuts after a 10:18 p.m. crash Monday on Royallton Heights road.

Reported in satisfactory condition today in Memorial hospital was Denis John O'Hara, 16, of 4509 South Pipestone road, Sodus.

Patrolman Larry Eichelberger reported O'Hara was injured when he failed to stop at the end of Royallton Heights road at the intersection of Manitou road, and crashed in a field.

A passenger on the motorcycle, Lyle F. Bandurski, 17, of 8527 Columbia road, Eau Claire, was thrown from the vehicle and was not injured. Eichelberger said. O'Hara said he was not familiar with the area and believed he was southbound on Niles road when the accident occurred. Eichelberger reported.

Niles road crosses I-94 while Royallton Heights road dead ends west of the freeway at Manitou road. No ticket was issued, police said.

Benton township police said a motorist was slightly injured and his auto heavily damaged in a two-car collision at the intersection of East Main street and Martin Luther King highway at 1:40 p.m. Monday.

Police said Thomas J. LaVany, 24, of Red Arrow highway, Coloma, was treated and released from Memorial hospital after his car and an auto driven by Joseph P. Herzog, 20, of 354 Elvern, drive, Benton township, collided. Officers said Herzog was ticketed for failure to stop in assured clear distance.

South Haven Tables Bid To Close Part Of Street

South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A request from the South Haven board of education to have a portion of Michigan avenue adjacent to the school's Ratcliffe athletic field vacated was tabled by the South Haven city council last night.

No opposition to the proposed vacation was expressed during a hearing, but aldermen said they wanted the school board to resolve the question of an exchange of land with a nearby property owner before making a decision.

The school board is seeking to have approximately 500 feet of Michigan avenue vacated so as to allow the expansion of the running track at the athletic field. The board also contends it will be able to improve traffic control in the area.

James Weinert, 450 Bailey avenue, asked the councilmen to include in their approval a stipulation that the school system will trade some property with him that would be affected by the vacation. Weinert said some of his property would otherwise become landlocked.

School Atty. David Grier of South Haven made a verbal agreement to the land swap, noting that negotiations with Weinert have been underway for a year.

In other matters, council formally created a seven-member commission to administer the city's federal community block grant program. Formal council action puts the commission in compliance with the city charter.

The council tabled bids submitted for general sidewalk, curb and gutter work for the city. City manager Paul Sharon said the bids from three firms required more study and tabulation to determine the low and best bid.

Council approved a Chamber of Commerce sponsored arts and crafts show in Johnston park on Sept. 4.

A request from Ethel Waddell on behalf of the Van Buren Civic association that the city consider participating in a new state-funded summer youth employment program was referred to the city manager.

A.W. Roberts, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, expressed appreciation to city supervisors for their efforts in making the National Blueberry Festival possible. The supervisors performed preparatory tasks due to a strike by employees who are members of the Independent Municipal Employees Union.

Pilot Safe In Cass Crash

EDWARDSBURG — A light single-engine plane crash landed in a grove of trees north of here Monday, but the pilot sustained only minor injuries requiring no medical treatment, according to the Cass county sheriff's office.

Pilot of the plane was identified as Brian J. Harriman, 23, route 2, Edwardsburg. He was the lone occupant. Deputies said Harriman reported the engine failed and he overshot a field on the farm of Adrian Glezak, Jefferson township, and crashed into the grove.

Deputies said the $1,500 plane, owned by Harriman's father, Fred, also of route 2, was a total loss as a result of the 6:45 p.m. crash. The sheriff's office and the Federal Aeronautics Administration office in South Bend, Ind., are investigating the crash.

Air Conditioning In 75th Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The first practical air conditioner to control temperature and humidity was installed in a Brooklyn printing plant in 1902.

Bond Sale Notice OKd In Chikaming

LAKEVILLE — The Chikaming township board last night in special session adopted a legal notice of sale resolution for $110,000 in water department revenue bonds to pay for connecting Chikaming's water system with Lake township's. Earlier this month the board approved an ordinance setting up the sale of the bonds. The bonds will be paid off through water department revenues, according to the board, and no additional tax monies will be required. The two townships have a joint water sale agreement being developed. Township engineers, in a related matter, told residents along Flynn road (not now a part of Chikaming's system) that it would cost them $2,225 each to get water lines extended from Lake township if 14 property owners connected. Chikaming township board has previously said the Flynn road residents would have to bear the cost themselves.

BOARD VOTE UNANIMOUS AT SPECIAL MEETING

Fennville Won't Back Pullman Transfer

FENNVILLE — After hearing public comment for over an hour, the Fennville school board last night voted not to back transfer of Bloomingdale school students in the Pullman area to the Fennville district.

The unanimous vote came at a special meeting of the board on the transfer matter, attended by some 90 people.

The proposal is now scheduled to come before a joint meeting of the Van Buren and Allegan county intermediate school boards in Lawrence tonight.

Contacted after the meeting, William Sexton, superintendent of the Allegan intermediate district, said he felt his board would support Fennville's position at the meeting. Sexton said the five members of each intermediate board would vote as one group on the issue, and that at least a 6-4 majority would be needed to approve the proposed transfer.

During the meeting, Sexton outlined three alternatives the two intermediate boards will have tonight. He said they could support the transfer and then order a required election in the Bloomingdale district on the matter; the boards could vote not to approve transfer and then the issue could be appealed to the state board of education; or the board could request additional information on the matter and take no action.

Speaking against the transfer was Ronald Prentice, spokesman for a group of residents opposed to the transfer, and a former school board member.

Prentice said in the past the Pullman area had been asked on three occasions to come into Fennville, but had declined. He also said he felt the proposal was a move by Bloomingdale to unload 'no' voters into Fennville.

James Muenzer, Bloomingdale school board president, said one reason the Bloomingdale board had approved the transfer plan because Pullman area residents have voted 'no' in previous money issue elections. He said the district is currently planning a building bond issue program aimed at getting the district off split-class sessions.

Supporting the transfer was Leroy Wolins whose property was transferred recently from Bloomingdale to the Fennville district.

Wolins said the move would be an economical advantage for Fennville.

Wolins also claimed that Pullman area residents have not supported Bloomingdale millage issues in the past because the area is not represented on the Bloomingdale board; that Bloomingdale voters have rejected attempts by Pullman residents to be elected to the board, and that Pullman residents are not informed of special Bloomingdale school board meetings.

Asked if Fennville students might ever be bused to Pullman, Willis Mullen, Fennville board president, said, "Anything is possible. I'm not going to sit here and say no." Mullen said that present teachers at Pullman would be laid off at Bloomingdale, and could apply for jobs at Fennville. He added that they would not automatically become Fennville teachers.

Mullen cited several reasons why Pullman residents favor the transfer, including the fact that Fennville is closer, that Pullman students would get off split sessions and that Bloomingdale high school is not accredited, while Fennville is accredited.

If the transfer is approved, Sept. James Tackmann said Fennville would have to pay a prorated share of Bloomingdale's bonded indebtedness for the Pullman school, and Pullman residents would assume Fennville's indebtedness.

Tackmann said the transfer would involve 343 students. The Fennville high school could support the added students but the middle school would be housed to near capacity, he said. Grade school students would remain in Pullman.

Fennville Ambulance Fees Set

FENNVILLE — The Fennville Ambulance Service last night set $2,198 as the share each governmental unit will pay to maintain the service for fiscal year 1977-78.

Members of the service are the city of Fennville, and the townships of Lee, Clyde, Manlius and Ganges.

Also last night, the service set $7,000 as the fee for any new units wishing to join the ambulance service. Although it has not made a formal request, Saugatuck township, south of the Kalamazoo river, but excluding the village of Douglas, has no service since Dykstra Ambulance service, Holland, was purchased by Priority Ambulance, Zeeland.

The Fennville group has provided service to the area for about the last month, but the board said last night that the area must join if service is to continue.

It said that Saugatuck, or any other unit wishing to join, could pay the $7,000 fee in two payments of $3,500 each year.

In other areas, the board reported a balance ending June 30 of $8,141.

Sewer Easements Concern In Galien

GALIEN — "We want to get these sewer easements as cheaply as we can and still be fair to everyone," Galien Village President Robert James said last night during a public hearing.

The Galien village council held the hearing to field complaints and questions about the easements the village needs to clear the way for the construction of the village's $1.3 million sewer system.

James said the sewer construction firm, Selge Construction of Niles, and the village's engineers, Wightman & Associates of St. Joseph, will meet with residents who have complaints to try and work out compromises.

One man at the hearing, Robert Huss, told the council that he does not have 20 feet behind his home for an easement.

A second man, William Underly, expressed worries that a lift station to be near his property might dry up his water well along with the wells of others.

In business during a special village council meeting following the hearing, the council voted to purchase for $1,500 a 1975 Plymouth car from the Berrien county sheriff's department.

New Buffalo Board Continues Talks On Covert's Successor

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo school board last night rescheduled a special meeting for Monday, July 25, when no decision could be reached on a successor to a board member who resigned recently.

The special meeting had been set for 9 p.m. last night. It was rescheduled when an executive session stretched until 10:30 p.m. without a decision. The closed session began about 8 p.m.

Supl. Walter Schwarz said the board had several possible successors under consideration, triggering the extended deliberations. Schwarz declined to identify the possible replacements.

The appointee will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Will Covert.

The special meeting July 25 will follow an executive session and work meeting that get underway at 8 p.m., according to Schwarz.

Schwarz said goals and board policies are to be discussed during the work meeting and said that under the state's new open meetings law only the deliberations over a successor to Covert would be closed to the public.

A formal vote on naming the successor will be held during the special meeting, if deliberations are completed.

Fennville Slates Rezoning Hearing

FENNVILLE — The Fennville city commission last night scheduled a rezoning hearing for a Berrien county-based savings and loan firm that wants to build a new branch office here. In a special meeting, the commission set Aug. 8, 7:30 p.m., for the hearing on the request by LaSalle Federal Savings and Loan association of Buchanan that the old junior high lot on West Main street be rezoned from residential to commercial.

James Clarey, the city council's mayor pro tem, said the financial firm has received approval from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board for the branch. LaSalle has assets of about $100 million and besides its Buchanan headquarters, has branches in Bridgman, Coloma and Deatur.

Galien Firm Given High School Work

GALIEN — The Galien school board in a special meeting last night accepted the low bid of a Galien firm for suspended ceilings, new lighting fixtures and new wiring for all high school classrooms. The low bid of $33,300 from Pence Construction of Galien was the lowest of three bids and was accepted by the board. The high bid was $42,840. School officials said they expect most of the work to be completed by the time classes begin this fall.

Heroin, Gun Cost Him Years In Prison

An Elkhart, Ind., man was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to concurrent prison terms for possession of a gun and heroin in a car in Niles township. Judge Julian E. Hughes imposed the prison terms on William E. Carpenter, 28. He received 2 to 5 years in prison for carrying a concealed weapon and 2 to 4 years for possession of heroin. Carpenter was charged with carrying the items in a car in Niles township on Feb. 26.

Judge Zoe S. Burkholz sentenced Robert F. Sewell, Jr., 18, of 680 McCord street, Benton Harbor, to 40 to 60 months in prison for attempted breaking and entering the residence of Deloris Rheams, at 747 Buena Vista, Benton township, on June 4.

Judge Burkholz sentenced Dawson, 28, of Sawyer, to two years probation and $250 fine and costs for assault with a deadly weapon — a revolver — against James T. Penny Dec. 5 in Benton township.

In other sentences by Hughes: Walter F. Bradley, 29, of 1946 East Britain avenue, Benton township, was placed on three years probation and assessed $250 fine and costs for delivery of amphetamines March 22 in Benton township. Alice Baker, 35, of 339 Linden avenue, Benton township, was sentenced to the first 60 days of a two-year probation in jail, and assessed $250 fine and costs for receiving and concealing stolen property, a Cadillac, Aug. 5 in Coloma township. James Jesse Jones, 37, of 365 Territorial J Benton Harbor, was placed on three years probation and ordered to pay $250 fine and costs for careless discharge of a .22 caliber rifle, causing injury to Frank Joshua Jan. 22 in Benton Harbor. Joshua was shot in the foot while Jones was unloading a rifle.

In arraignments before Judge Chester J. Byrns: Patrick C. Dodson, 31, of 45 South Whittaker street, New Buffalo, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder. He is charged with shooting Terry Martin with a rifle June 26 in New Buffalo. Kenneth D. Benn, 18, of 208 Bellview, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to larceny from a building — the theft of cigarette lighters from a service station, at 480 South Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, on June 29. Willie James Campbell, 32, of 389 Broadway, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon, a pistol, June 22 in Benton Harbor.

Ten-Year Sentence Now Is 60-90 Years

Carl B. Fulton, 24, was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to 60 to 90 years in prison for rape after he had withdrawn a no contest plea to a lesser sex charge that carries only a 10-year maximum.

Judge Julian Hughes sentenced Fulton for first degree criminal sexual conduct — the rape last Aug. 11 of a 23-year-old Benton Harbor woman whom Fulton allegedly threatened with a shotgun.

Fulton had pleaded no contest in February to a charge of assault with intent to commit first degree sexual conduct and was in line for a sentence of no more than 10 years.

But he withdrew that plea bargain and pleaded innocent to the more serious charge, rape. Judge Hughes at the time warned Fulton of possible consequences and Fulton said he understood, according to court records.

Fulton went to trial and was found guilty by a jury last month. "If I'd heard the case non-jury, I'd have reached the same verdict," Hughes said yesterday. "The evidence established there was a forceful rape involving a gun."

Hughes noted that Fulton in 1970 was sentenced to four years in prison from Berrien county for assault with a deadly weapon and had served prison time in Indiana for burglary.

Fulton is a native of Missouri who has had various addresses in Benton township and Benton Harbor.

CB Radio Thief Sent To Jail

BY DENNIS COGSWELL

Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A South Haven man was sentenced Monday in Van Buren circuit court to serve five months in jail for the theft of a CB radio in South Haven last November.

Judge Meyer Warshawsky imposed the sentence on Arthur Swann, 37, who had pleaded guilty earlier to a charge of larceny in a building.

The radio was reported stolen from the General Store, 515 Phoenix, South Haven, according to city police.

In arraignments, Clyde Strong, 30, Covert, pleaded innocent to a supplemental information charge alleging he is a habitual criminal. It alleges he was convicted of charges of attempted murder and attempted armed robbery in St. Louis, Mo. in 1969. He was sentenced to six years in prison. Conviction on the supplemental information under the habitual criminal statute, could raise the maximum prison term, Strong would receive to 30 years if he is found guilty on any of three counts of second degree criminal sexual conduct now pending against him.

Those charges involve alleged assaults against three Covert girls during a period of Feb. 15 to March 15.

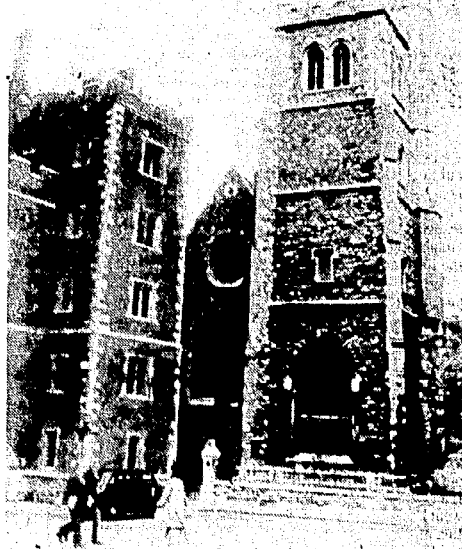

Wildcat Strike Ordered Halted

FENTON, Mo. (AP) — A federal judge has enjoined workers at the Chrysler truck assembly plant here from continuing a wildcat strike that closed the facility Monday.

More than 1,000 of the 1,850 workers on the first shift left their jobs at 8 a.m. to protest the weekend dismissal of two committeemen and two chief shop stewards.

Nine Demand District Court Felony Hearings

Thelma L. Green, of 321 Main street, Watervliet, was jailed after failing to post $1,500 bond after her arraignment in Berrien Fifth District court yesterday on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100.

She demanded a preliminary examination on the charge before Judge Hugh Black.

She is accused of receiving and concealing at her residence an estimated $750 worth of household items reported stolen Saturday night from the Richard Salmon home, 3444 Bessemer road, Hagar township, according to Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Officers said alleged loot recovered included a .22-caliber rifle, a bow and arrows, a stereo set, a sewing machine and iron.

Thelma Green and a 15-year-old boy were taken into custody at her residence by deputies Sunday, officers said.

The boy was lodged in the Berrien county youth detention center and was to be petitioned into Berrien juvenile court on similar charges, deputies said. Another suspect is still being sought, officers said.

Also demanding a preliminary hearing yesterday was Robert McGee, 27, of Box 180, Hochberger road, Eau Claire, on a charge of larceny from a person.

He is accused of snatching a wallet containing $200 from the pocket of Jessie Bradbury and fleeing July 15 on Watson road in Eau Claire, deputies said.

Bruce Carter, 19, and Kevin C. Green, 18, both of East Chicago, Ind., demanded preliminary hearings on charges of carrying a concealed weapon — a .22-caliber revolver — in an auto July 17 on I-94 in Benton township. Carter also pleaded innocent to a misdemeanor charge of fleeing and eluding a police officer.

They were arrested after a chase on I-94 that exceeded speeds of 120 miles an hour, according to state police of the Benton Harbor post.

Michael Duncan, 21, Michigan City, Ind., demanded a preliminary hearing on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon — a .25-caliber pistol — in an auto in New Buffalo July 17. He also was sentenced to pay a fine and costs of $152 or serve 30 days in jail for driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Also demanding examinations were:

Leonard Brock, 21, of 480 Cherry street, Benton Harbor, on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100 — costume jewelry rings — in Benton Harbor Feb. 22.

Matthew B. Robinson, 35, of 927 North Shore drive, Benton township, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon — a .22-caliber derringer — in his auto in Benton Harbor July 17.

Donald P. Miller, 28, of 15143 Lakeshore road, Lakeside, on a charge of possession of a controlled substance — amobarbital — in St. Joseph July 17.

Danny G. Lahm, 19, of Evergreen Park, Ill., on a charge of possession of cocaine on I-94 in Royallton township July 17.

Sentenced were: Willie W. Frazier, 32, of 5295 River road, Sodus, 10 days jail for disorderly person, using profanity, at Main and Paw Paw in Benton Harbor July 17.

Dorothy E. Brunt, 46, of Chicago, $50 fine and costs or 10 days for carelessly carrying a .32-caliber pistol — reduced from carrying a concealed weapon — on I-94 in Lincoln township July 17.

Olan Morris, 52, listed on court records as having no permanent address, 10 days for shoplifting $7.82 worth of items at Hilltop Foods, Benton Harbor, July 15.

Roy Lee Stokes, 42, Red

Arrow highway, Hartford, 10 days for shoplifting two cans of soup from Hilltop Foods, Benton Harbor, July 15.

Tommy C. Lewis, 49, of Detroit, $125 or 25 days for possession of an unregistered pistol on I-94 in Benton township July 16.

Otha Dennis Harris Jr., 21, of 432 Broadway, Benton Harbor, 30 days for contempt — failure to appear at a May 10 trial in District court on a charge of petty larceny.

Charles W. Bright, 38, of Michigan City, Ind., $152 or 30 days for driving under the influence of intoxicants in New Buffalo July 16.

Mable Markray, 18, of 1946 East Britain avenue, Benton township, three days and $62 or 15 days for driving with a suspended license July 15 in Benton township.

Sentenced for impaired driving were Richard J. Fairleigh, 18, of 1332 Timberlane drive, Lincoln township; B.W. Boswell, 52, of 5122 St. Joseph avenue, Stevensville; and Jim W. Holcomb, 26, of Box 273 M-140, Watervliet, each $102. Also, Earl E. Welch, 22, of Warren, Ind., $102 or 14 days.

SUMMER IS HARD ON YOUR EYES

Outdoor living, swimming in chlorinated pools and salt water, glaring sun, windblown dust, allergies and other natural irritants make summertime really hard on your eyes. It is wise to have on hand a bottle of eye drops for use when any of these problems arise. We carry a complete stock as well as many other eye care products.

Here are a few helpful hints to make applying eye drops simple:

1. Tilt head back and close eyes.
2. Apply one or two drops in the inner corners of each eye.
3. Open lids and let the drops flow naturally into the eyes.

Sri Lanka Campaign Heats Up

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike faces stiff opposition from the United National party in parliamentary elections Thursday. The campaign has focused on this tropical island's serious economic problems. Mrs. Bandaranaike's socialist Sri Lanka Freedom party now holds a comfortable majority in coalition with the pro-Moscow Communist party. Political observers say the contest is more one of personalities than ideology. Both Mrs. Bandaranaike and her chief rival, United National party leader Junius Richard Jayewardene, favor a nonaligned foreign policy and socialist economies.

You have more power over your electric bill than you think.

No matter what we do to help keep your electric bill in line, there's one thing we have no power over.

The amount of power you use. So we'd like to point out the most significant places where only you have the biggest opportunities to save.

Insulation

6 to 12 inches of insulation in your attic could save you real money each year. You'll save even more if you insulate your walls, heating ducts and hot water pipes.

Caulking, weatherstripping, storm windows, shades and drapes also help keep heat inside in winter, and outside in summer.

Thermostat Control

Lower your thermostat in winter. Each degree below 68°F can save three percent of the energy needed for heating. If you have air conditioning, a higher thermostat setting will also save energy in summer.

Hot Water Use

You can save up to 5% a year of the energy needed to heat water if you turn your water heater thermostat down to 120 degrees and take quick showers instead of baths.

Fix leaky hot water faucets promptly. And wash clothes in cold water, if you can. Washing and drying only full loads of clothes and dishes is more economical, too.

Appliance Efficiency

If you're in the market for appliances and equipment, look for the new energy saving features on refrigerators, freezers, and dishwashers. Choose an Energy Efficiency Ratio (EER) of 8 or higher on room air conditioners.

While there are a lot more ways to save electricity, these are the ones that will make the biggest impression on your bill.

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — A Roman Catholic man who leads Vermont's Human Services Agency has been threatened with church discipline for supporting the use of government funds for abortions.

The Most Rev. John Marshall, bishop to the state's 150,000 Catholics, issued the warning to Sister Elizabeth Cardon after she said the state should not discriminate against poor people by denying them medical services available to others.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Pushes Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — Encouragement over the strong trend of second quarter earnings reports helped push stock market prices higher again today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose a fraction in early trading.

Gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers noted that many of the second quarter earnings reports by major companies to date had surpassed Wall Street's expectations.

In particular, the profit figures have helped shore up some of the depressed glamor stocks in recent sessions.

Today's prices included National Semiconductor, up 3/4 at 23 1/2; Sony, ahead 1/4 at 8 7/8; PepsiCo, up 1/4 at 24 1/4; and Dresser Industries, unchanged at 45 1/2.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.65 to 910.60 after a 2.96-point advance in the previous session.

Gainers outnumbered losers by close to a 9-5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 26.89 million shares, against 29.12 million on Friday.

The NYSE's composite index added .38 to 55.37.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .61 at 123.79.

GM Loses Bid To Drop Switch Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — A state judge has denied a motion by General Motors to dismiss a consumer-fraud suit involving engine switches on GM cars.

State Supreme Court Justice Abraham Gellinoff issued the decision Monday. It requires GM to answer the suit by Aug. 18; a hearing was set for Sept. 1.

The suit was brought by Louis Lefkowitz, state attorney general, who obtained a judgment against GM last spring for selling more than 5,000 Oldsmobiles, Pontiacs and Buicks with Chevrolet engines installed without the knowledge of purchasers.

GM entered a consent agreement afterwards promising to make restitution.

In his second lawsuit, Lefkowitz charged he has "obtained massive evidence" that GM had been switching engines among all of its automobile divisions, installing Oldsmobile and Pontiac engines in Buicks, Buick engines in Oldsmobiles, Oldsmobile and Buick engines in Pontiacs and Oldsmobiles engines in Cadillac Seattles.

GM has acknowledged that it switched engines, but has denied the practice, saying parts interchangeability is common throughout the auto industry. However, GM said dealers should inform customers of the swap.

Lefkowitz claimed he filed the second suit because GM refused to extend the restitution provisions of the prior judgment to the new cases he has uncovered.

BH Padlocks V-M Buildings

The City of Benton Harbor has padlocked V-M buildings in a seizure of the company's personal property for nonpayment of personal property taxes, according to City Manager Melvin Farmer, Jr.

Farmer said padlocks were placed yesterday on V-M's main building on Park street and its service department on West Main. Farmer said V-M owes some $360,000 in back taxes, mostly personal property taxes.

Farmer said the city acted as tax collection agent for itself, the Benton Harbor school district, Berrien county and Lake Michigan college for the satisfaction of delinquent personal property taxes. Farmer said the notices state the property will be auctioned in an attempt to satisfy the taxes.

The city's action applies only to personal property taxes and does not affect real property taxes which are in the hands of the county treasurer, Farmer said.

V-M, producer of stereo sets and record changers, was closed last Friday. Victor A. Miller, company president, said V-M couldn't meet the payroll because of a lack of cash. Miller said he was trying to arrange financing.

Knight-Ridder Announces Big Earnings Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — Knight-Ridder Newspapers, Inc., which publishes 32 daily newspapers including the Detroit Free Press, has announced a 25.3 per cent earnings gain in the second quarter.

Net earnings were $32.2 million, or $1.04 per share, in the second quarter, compared to $27.5 million and 83 cents a year ago.

Revenue for the Miami-based chain was $181.7 million, compared to $172.7 million a year earlier, officials said Monday.

Charges In Litton Suit Are Denied By Whirlpool

Whirlpool Corporation has branded as "without merit" charges of patent infringement and unfair competition pertaining to the manufacture and sale of Whirlpool brand microwave ovens contained in a suit filed by Litton Systems, Inc., and will contest the suit.

Responding to the Litton suit, which first came to Whirlpool's attention in the news media, Robert L. Brintnall, vice president, Whirlpool Sales Division, issued the following statement:

Foreigners Buying U.S. Farmland

By DON BEMAN
Associated Press Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Foreign interests own millions of acres of U.S. farmland, but state and federal officials don't think Americans should be too worried.

"I don't see any danger of an invasion yet. But I think it should be monitored," says Iowa Secretary of Agriculture Robert Lounsbury.

"This is an emotional thing now because we're really not talking about a lot of land. But I can see where it might be a problem in the future," he said.

The U.S. Commerce Department, under a 1974 federal law, is surveying foreign ownership and says preliminary reports show 4.9 million acres of land owned by foreigners, who hold leases on an additional 62.8 million.

The U.S. Agriculture Department disputes the figures, but admits it has none of its own.

The USDA also says the current totals are not significant but, like Lounsbury, maintains its concern "is not quantity at this time, but (the) possible implications for future investment policy."

The USDA also said it considers pinning down who owns the land an important task and notes that Iowa is the leader in finding out.

State documents show that $8.3 million worth of Iowa farmland is controlled by foreign interests, with West Germans holding title to $6.4 million worth.

The holdings amount to only 6,823 acres, two-hundredths of 1 per cent of Iowa's 34.2 million acres of farmland.

The alien ownership reports are required by an Iowa law passed in 1975 and were taken from documents on file in the secretary of state's office.

According to the documents, West Germans — mainly two families — hold 5,225 acres in the state. Lesser amounts of land are owned by Canadians, Guatemalans, Italians, Dutch and Swiss.

The value of the alien-controlled land was based on a survey done by Iowa State University which indicated the average value of Iowa farmland is $1,231 per acre.

Peach Trading Active

Trading was again active for peaches on the Benton Harbor Fruit Market Monday. Supplies were light as many growers are in between early varieties and Redhaves, according to Mike Pfeiffer of the USDA market news service.

First Peppers Are Delivered

The first peppers were brought to market yesterday by John Mulson of Benton Harbor. Mike Alessis of Evergreen Park, Ill., paid a total of $14.05 for two containers amounting to just over 1 1/2 bushels.

Pfeiffer noted that the first Redhaves appeared on the market Monday and sold at $5.15 for 1/2 bushels. Al Brandt, market manager, said that more growers will start picking Redhaves later in the week.

Prices paid Monday were: PEACHES: 1/2 bu., Garnett Beauty, $4-$4.25; Redhaven, $5.15; Sunhaven, $3.50-$4; ripe and split pits, $3-$3.25. Receipts: 1,081 1/2 bu, 300 3/4 bu, 7 bu.

APPLES: 3/4 bu, US 1, 214-inch-up, Lodi, $3.50-$3.75, open bushel, $4; 1/2 bu, Lodi, $2.25; Transparent, $2; Red June, $3. Receipts: 306 bushel equivalent.

BLUEBERRIES: 12-pt flats, $8.50-$9. Receipts: 351. PLUMS: 8-qt flats, Ozarks, $5, small $4; Starks Early, $4.50-$5, 1/2 bu, $4. Receipts: 75 flats, 37 1/2 bu.

NECTARINES: 8-qt flats, $4.50. Receipts: 36. APRICOTS: 8-qt flats, $6.50-$7.10, small $5-$5.50. Receipts: 53.

CUCUMBERS: bu, US-1, $5.50-$6; large and US 2, $3, some unsold. Receipts: 857.

TOMATOES: 8-qt cartons, $5; 8 2-qt cartons, $10. Receipts: 36 8-qt cartons.

RED RASPBERRIES: 12-pt flats, $10. Receipts: 18. BLACKBERRIES: 12-pt flats, $9. Receipts: 21 flats, 16 crates.

SWEET CORN: dozen, $0.40-$0.50, some unsold. Receipts: 1,633.

PICKLES: 12-qt jumbos, $3. Receipts: 142.

BEANS: bu, green, $5; pole type, $6. Receipts: 192.

GLADIOLUS: cans, $7.50. Receipts: 60.

Total receipts for Monday were 6,387 packages brought in on 130 grower loads. Twelve day buyers were reported yesterday.

South Haven Hit By Phony Raffle

SOUTH HAVEN — Police here said a South Haven area grocery store chain has been made the unwitting partner in a phony raffle ticket scheme. Police said the phony tickets, bearing the name of the Helping Hand Charity Club, and in smaller print, the Village Market, were sold in the South Haven area. The tickets were sold for $1 each and offered cash prizes ranging from $10 to $50 in a drawing supposedly to be held Aug. 20.

Police said Charles Burress, manager of the South Haven Village Market, told them yesterday that the company has no knowledge of the raffle and does not endorse the project. The company has other stores in Pullman, Bloomingdale and Centerville. There have been no arrests, police said.

Districts May Lose Extra Mill

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

Both South Haven and Gobles school districts stand to lose one mill of a 9.58-mill non-voted tax rate they receive for operation under a ruling expected to be handed down by the Michigan Tax Tribunal, according to Jerry Sarno, Covert township supervisor.

Sarno said that during a hearing in Lansing yesterday, tax tribunal members were in agreement that taxpayers in the South Haven and Gobles districts were assessed at a 16-mill non-voted rate, one more than the statutory maximum of 15.

Sarno said that in a similar case in the Bay City area last year, the tribunal ruled that not more than 15 non-voted mills could be levied in a township. He said he expects the tribunal will soon hand down a written order which will have the effect of lowering the non-voted mills, both school districts can levy from 9.58 to 8.58.

The matter came up during the hearing on a petition filed by 15 Van Buren county townships challenging the division of the 15 non-voted mills divided annually by the Van Buren Tax Allocation board.

The townships, which currently receive one mill under the split, are seeking an additional half-mill.

Under the division, the county receives 5.25 mills, all but the two school districts 8.58 mills, the intermediate school district 17 of a mill, and townships one mill.

South Haven and Gobles have been receiving 9.58 mills because both are city districts serving bi-county areas.

Sarno said that in districts that cross county lines, the non-voted levy may be the highest figure allowed by the county in which the majority of the district's residents live, but may not exceed 15 mills.

South Haven district includes South Haven city and township, Geneva township and Casco township in Allegan county. The Gobles district includes Gobles city, Pine Grove township, parts of Waverly and Bloomingdale townships, and part of Trowbridge township in Allegan county.

Sarno said a quirk in the law allows cities in school districts to levy more than the 15 mills, but not townships. He said traditionally, townships surrounding Gobles and South Haven have been paying the extra non-voted mill to keep the tax rate among all district residents uniform. However, if the tax tribunal rules that Gobles and South Haven must lower its levies by one mill in the townships which make up its districts, Sarno said he doubts the districts could go on forcing city residents to pay a higher rate without having the matter challenged in court.

Most of yesterday's hearing was taken up by testimony of Ivan Stein of South Haven, chairman of the Van Buren county allocation board. The townships claim the board was illegally constituted because Stein, as chairman of the county building authority, was prevented by law from being appointed to the allocation board by county commissioners.

The tribunal is expected to rule on that matter at a later date. The hearing was recessed to Aug. 1, when further testimony will be taken.

Tractor Registration Deadline Is Aug. 1

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Registration deadline for tractors to be entered in the annual tractor pull competition at the Berrien County Youth fair is Monday, Aug. 1. James Reed of Niles, tractor pull chairman, said entries can be made either by mail or in person at the fair office, located in the Youth Memorial building on the fairgrounds.

Reed said the contest will have farm, garden and modified tractors. The pulling contest is scheduled Saturday, Aug. 20, the final day of the fair. Information that must be furnished in entering the contest includes: Name, address and phone number of owner; tractor model, approximate weight; plus entry fee of $5 for garden tractors, $7.50 for farm tractors and $25 for modified tractors.

Crane Tips; Operator Dies

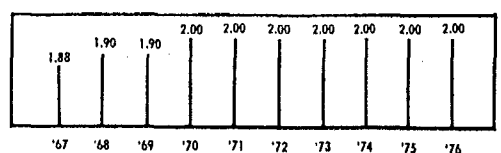

HARBOR BEACH, Mich. (AP) — A 56-year-old man was crushed to death when a crane he was operating tipped over in a gravel pit in Sherman Township near Harbor Beach. The Harbor Beach fire department rescue squad worked several hours Monday to free the body of Delbert Conquergood.

DEAR MAMA BEAR,
Dear Mom, I arrived safe & sound and am enjoying new life. The people are sweet and so are the homes. Looked at one last night just listed in Lincoln Twp. Master room is more than big enough. Put and Kristen can put their toys in their rooms and there's a beautiful fireplace in the living room with bookshelves on either side. Sliding doors separate dining room and we will have a family style kitchen. My pool table will fit nicely in the basement, there's a 2-car garage and the house is back with a shrubbed private back yard. Please come quickly to see it, priced at just $10,500.

JACKSON SPACE CENTER: This 85-foot-high Mercury Redstone rocket stands in front of domed building of Jackson Space Center at Jackson Community College in Jackson. The $750,000 building houses exhibits that trace history of rocketry from early efforts to future and includes moon rock, space suits, lunar surveyor and other space-related machinery. Center, six miles south of Jackson off US-127, opened May 7, and is open daily throughout year. It is dedicated to 13 astronauts with family or education ties to Michigan. Jackson is home of former astronauts James McDivitt and Al Worden.

Bangor Workers Take Pay Offer

BANGOR — Earl Perry, director of this city's public works department, said the department's seven workers have voted to accept life insurance policies paid for by the city.

They previously had rejected the package.

The $10,000 policies along with an across-the-board hourly wage increase of 22 cents were offered to the city's 17 full-time employees by the city council at its June 27 meeting.

The employees decision was announced at a July 11 council meeting.

Since then, Perry said the seven met with the insurance company representative and in an informal vote approved acceptance of it. Perry said he would inform the council of the employees' decision at the council's next meeting.

Perry said he felt the seven employees turned down the offer originally because they didn't understand it fully.

Under the city's labor policy, employees must vote whether to approve wage and benefit offers. Although the workers are not represented by a union, the action is covered under a city labor agreement. The city will pay the entire premium on the life insurance policies.

Broken Insulator Cuts Power

CADILLAC, Mich. (AP) — A broken insulator at a downtown substation was blamed for a power failure that left Cadillac without electricity more than two hours Monday.

Consumers Power Co. officials said the blackout hit the entire city. They were unable to determine what caused the insulator to break.

Police called in off-duty officers to guide traffic after the power failure turned off traffic signals. But there were no reports of major problems in the northwestern Michigan city.

Reverse Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reversing a stand it took earlier this year, the Internal Revenue Service says the public is entitled to know the reasons the agency revoked the tax-exempt status of the Teamsters Union Central States Pension Fund.

Bloomingtondale And Gobles Plan Joint Blood Drive

BLOOMINGTONDALE — Gobles and Bloomingtondale are joining forces for the purpose of a Red Cross blood donation drive to be held here at the Christian church, July 28, according to Mrs. Everett H. Stockham of Bloomingtondale.

She said the communities in separate drives have been unable to meet past quotas, so a single, combined drive to save costs was planned at the urging of the Van Buren county chapter of the Red Cross.

She said quota for the combined drive is 125 pints.

Donors will be able to give blood from 1 p.m. until 7 p.m.

said Mrs. Stockham, who is blood drive chairman here.

She said appointments to give blood are not necessary.

GI Unions Are Opposed By Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon wants to make sure the "New Army" and other branches of the military don't have card-carrying union members who could go on strike.

Senior military officers told a congressional committee on Monday that they feel the unionization of GIs would disrupt the basic chain-of-command system of discipline.

Army Chief of Staff Bernard Rogers, in testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee, said rules are being drawn up by the Pentagon to discourage union membership among military personnel.
